Historical Sketch

The Western Theological Seminary was established in the year 1825. The reason for the founding of the Seminary is expressed in the resolution on the subject, adopted by the General Assembly of 1825, to wit: "It is expedient forthwith to establish a Theological Seminary in the West, to be styled the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States." The Assembly took active measures for carrying into execution the resolution which had been adopted, by electing a Board of Directors consisting of twenty-one ministers and nine ruling elders, and by instructing this Board to report to the next General Assembly a suitable location and such "alterations" in the plan of the Princeton Seminary as, in their judgment, might be necessary to accommodate it to the local situation of the "Western Seminary."

The General Assembly of 1827, by a bare majority of two votes, selected Allegheny as the location for the new institution. The first session was formally commenced on November 16, 1827, with a class of four young men who were instructed by the Rev. E. P. Swift and the Rev. Joseph Stockton.

During the one hundred sixteen years of her existence, 3,361 students have attended the classes of the Western Theological Seminary; and of this number, more than twenty-four hundred have been ordained as ministers of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. Her missionary alumni, two hundred and thirteen in number, many of them having distinguished careers, have preached the Gospel in every land where missionary enterprise is conducted.

LOCATION. The choice of location, as the history of the institution has shown, was wisely made. The Seminary in course of time ceased, indeed, to be western in the strict sense of the term; but it became central to one of the most important and influential sections of the Presbyterian Church, equally accessible to the West and East.

LOWRIE HALL

The buildings are situated near the summit of Ridge Avenue, Pittsburgh (North Side), mainly on West Park, one of the most attractive sections of the city. Within a block of the Seminary property some of the finest residences of Greater Pittsburgh are to be found, and at the close of the catalogue prospective students will find a map showing the beautiful environs of the institution. It is twenty minutes' walk from the center of business in Pittsburgh, with a ready access to all portions of the city. In the midst of this community of more than 1,000,000 people and center of strong Presbyterian churches and church life, the students have unlimited opportunities of gaining familiarity with every type of modern church organization and work. The practical experience and insight which they are able to acquire, without detriment to their studies, are a most valuable element in their preparation for the ministry.

BUILDINGS. The first Seminary building was erected in the year 1831; it was situated on what is now known as Monument Hill. After its complete destruction by fire in 1854, a second building "Seminary Hall" was erected at the foot of Monument Hill, on Ridge Avenue facing West Park, and formally dedicated January 10, 1856. In turn this structure was partially destroyed by fire in 1887 and was immediately revamped. Seminary Hall was torn down November 1, 1914, to make room for the new buildings, Herron and Swift Halls.

The first dormitory was made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Hetty E. Beatty. It was erected in the year 1859 and was known as "Beatty Hall." This structure had become wholly inadequate to the needs of the institution by 1877, and the Rev. C. C. Beatty furnished the funds for a new dormitory which was known as "Memorial Hall," as Dr. Beatty wished to make the edifice commemorate the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church.

A library building, which was erected in 1872, has been replaced by a modern library equipment in the group of new buildings.

Present Seminary Buildings

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue, adjacent to West Park, in one of the most attractive sections of the North Side, Pittsburgh. They are easily reached by trolley and bus from the railroad stations, and other sections of the city.

HERRON HALL, named in memory of Rev. Francis Herron, D.D., one of the founders of the institution. The main architectural feature of this building is a tower, through which entrance is had to the quadrangle. While this tower enhances the beauty of the building, all the space in it has been carefully used for offices and classrooms.

SWIFT HALL, named in memory of Rev. Elisha P. Swift, D.D., another founder of the Seminary and for a period a professor, forms the rear of the quadrangle. It contains the chapel which seats two hundred, and the Library, which has a capacity for 165,000 volumes. The reference room and the administrative offices of the library, with seminar rooms, are found on the second floor. The reference room, 88 by 38 feet, is equipped and decorated in the mediæval Gothic style, with capacity for 10,000 volumes.

Both Herron and Swift Halls were dedicated on Commencement Day, May 4, 1916.

MEMORIAL HALL, the students' residence, was erected in 1911-12 on the site of an older building, with the name of the former structure retained as it commemorated the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church in 1870. It is laid out in the shape of a Y, which is an unusual design for a college building, but brings direct sunlight to every room. Another noticeable feature of this dormitory is that there is not a single inside room of any kind. The center is surmounted with a beautiful tower in the Oxford manner. It contains suites of rooms for seventy-five students, together with a handsomely furnished social hall, a well equipped gymnasium, and a commodious dining room. A full description of these public rooms will be found on other pages of this catalogue.

LOWRIE HALL, which was erected in 1933, is a memorial to Rev. John Cameron Lowrie, D.D., of the Class of 1832, the first graduate of the Seminary to go to the Foreign Mission field. Dr. Lowrie was the founder of Presbyterian Missions in North India, and served as a Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., from 1838 to 1891.

The building contains seven apartments for the use of missionaries during their furloughs. These apartments vary in size from suites of two rooms with kitchenette and bath to an apartment with five rooms. All the suites are furnished, and equipped with modern electrical appliances for housekeeping, and the latest type of plumbing. The heating system is connected with the central plant of the institution. The rental for these apartments is nominal. An early application is suggested to prospective occupants, who can secure full information with a plan of the suites from the President of the Seminary.

The architecture of the entire group is the English Collegiate Gothic of the type which prevails in the college buildings at Cambridge, England. The material is tapestry brick, trimmed with gray terra cotta of the Indiana limestone shade.

Marvin Social Hall

Memorial Hall contains a large social room, which occupies an entire floor in one wing. This room is very handsomely finished in white quartered oak, with a large open fireplace at one end. The oak furnishing, which is upholstered in leather, is very elegant and was chosen to match the woodwork. The prevailing color in the decorations is dark green. The rugs, which are Hartford Saxony in oriental patterns, were especially woven for the room. This handsome room was erected and furnished by the late Mr. Sylvester S. Marvin, of the Board of Trustees, and his two sons, Walter R. Marvin and Earl R. Marvin, as a memorial to Mrs. Matilda Rumsey Marvin. It is the center of the social life of the student body, and under the auspices of the Student Association, four formal musicals and socials are held yearly in this hall. The weekly devotional meeting of the Student Association is also conducted in this room.

Dining Hall

A commodious and handsomely equipped dining hall was included in the new Memorial Hall. It is located in the top story of the left wing, with the kitchen adjoining in the rear wing. It is the aim of the Trustees of the Seminary to furnish good wholesome food at cost; but incidentally the assembling of the student body three times a day has strengthened, to a marked degree, the social and spiritual life of the institution.

Library

An ample and choice collection of books is now housed in the new library in Swift Hall, the south wing of the group of buildings dedicated at the commencement season, 1916. This steel frame and fireproof structure is English Collegiate Gothic in architectural design and provides the library with an external equipment which, for beauty and completeness, is scarcely surpassed by any theological institution on this continent. The handsome beam-ceilinged reading room is furnished in keeping with the architecture. It is equipped with individual reading lamps and accommodates many hundred circulating volumes, besides reference books and current periodicals. Adjoining this are rooms for library administration. There is also a large, quiet seminar room for all those who wish to conduct researches, where the volumes that the library contains treating particular subjects may be assembled and used at convenience. A stack room with a capacity for about 165,000 volumes has been provided and now has a steel stack equipment with space for about 55,000 volumes.

Some years ago the Library came into possession of a unique hymnological collection of great value. It consists of 9 to 10 thousand volumes assembled by the late Mr. James Warrington, of Philadelphia. During his lifetime Mr. Warrington made the study of Church Music his chief pastime and had gathered together all the material of any value published in Great Britain and America dealing with his favorite theme. The library is exceedingly fortunate in the acquisition of this noteworthy collection, which will not only serve to enhance the work of the music department of the Seminary but offers to scholars and investigators, interested in the field of British and American Church Music, facilities unequalled by any theological collection in the country. The collection, together with Mr. Warrington's original catalogue and bibliographical material, occupies a separate room in the new building. The latter has been arranged and placed in new filing cabinets, thus rendering it convenient and accessible. Already in recent years, before the purchase of Mr. Warrington's collection had been thought of for the library, the department of hymnology had been enlarged, and embraced much that relates to the history and study of Church Music.

Other departments of the library also have been built up and are now much more complete. The mediæval historians of Europe are well represented in excellent editions, and the collection of authorities on the Papacy is quite large. These collections, both for secular and church history, afford great assistance in research and original work. The department of sermons is supplied with the best examples of preaching—ancient and modern—while every effort is made to obtain literature which bears upon the complete furnishing of the preacher and evangelist. To this end the missionary literature is rich in biography, travel, and education. Constant additions of the best writers on the original languages and Old Testament history are being made, and the library grows richer in the works of the best scholars of Europe and America. The department of New Testament Exegesis is well developed and being increased, not only by the best commentaries and exegetical works, but also by those which through history, essay, and sociological study illuminate and portray the times, people, and customs of the Gospel Age. The library possesses a choice selection of works upon theology, philosophy, and ethics, and additions are being made of volumes which discuss the fundamental principles. While it is not thought desirable to include every author, the leading writers are given a place without regard to their creed. Increasing attention is being given to those writers who deal with the great social problems and the practical application of Christianity to the questions of ethical and social life. The number of works on the shelves of the library dealing with religious education has multiplied many fold in recent years, and new books in this important field are being added constantly.

The number of volumes in the library at present is, approximately, 47,000. This reckoning is exclusive of the Warrington collection, and neither does it include unbound pamphlet material. About one hundred periodicals are currently received, not including annual reports, year books, government documents, and irregular continuations. With the exception of the Warrington Collection, a modern card catalogue covers all the bound volumes in the library.

The library is essentially theological, though it includes much not to be strictly defined by that term; for general literature the students have access to the Carnegie Library, which is situated within five minutes' walk of the Seminary buildings.

The services of the library are extended to all through its circulating and reference departments. Books are loaned by mail to persons living at a distance from Pittsburgh, the borrower paying the postage and insurance to and from the library. The reference department will gladly take care of any questions brought to its attention. We welcome your patronage.

The library is open on week days to all ministers and others, without restriction of creed, subject to the same rules as apply to students. Hours are from 9 to 5; Saturdays from 9 to 12. Closed during August.

The James L. Shields Book Purchasing Memorial Fund, with an endowment of $1,000, was founded by the late Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, in memory of her father, the late James L. Shields, of Blairsville, Pennsylvania.

Religious Exercises

As the Seminary does not maintain public services on the Lord's Day, each student is expected to connect himself with one of the congregations in Pittsburgh, and thus to be under pastoral care and to perform his duties as a church member.

Abundant opportunities for Christian work are afforded by the various churches, missions, and benevolent societies of this large community. This kind of labor has been found no less useful for practical training than the work of supplying pulpits. Daily prayers at 11:25 A. M., which all the students are required to attend, are conducted by the Faculty. A meeting for prayer and conference, conducted by the professors, is held every Wednesday morning, at which addresses are made by the professors and invited speakers.

Senior Preaching Service

(See Study Courses 74, 47, 55.)

Public worship is observed every Monday evening in the Seminary Chapel, from October to April, under the direction of the professor of homiletics. This service is intended to be in all respects what a regular church service should be. It is attended by the members of the Faculty, the entire student body, and friends of the Seminary generally. It is conducted by members of the Senior Class in rotation. The Cecilia Choir is in attendance to lead the singing and furnish a suitable anthem. The service is designed to minister to the spiritual life of the Seminary and also to furnish a model of Presbyterian form and order. The exercises are all reviewed by the professor in charge at his next subsequent meeting with the Senior Class. Members of the Faculty are also expected to offer to the officiating student any suggestions they may deem desirable.

Student Association

This society has been recently organized under the direction of the Faculty, which is represented on each one of the committees. Students are ipso facto and members of the Faculty ex officio members of the Student Association. Meetings are held weekly, the exercises being alternately missionary and devotional.

According to a rule of the faculty only those students who are in good standing in all their courses of study may be nominated or elected to responsible offices in connection with the Student Association or to any delegation representing the student body of the Seminary.

Christian Work

The City of Pittsburgh affords unusual opportunities for an adequate study of the manifold forms of modern Christian activity. Students are encouraged to engage in some form of Christian work other than preaching, as it is both a stimulus to devotional life and forms an important element in a training for the pastorate. Regular religious work of various types has been carried on under the direction of student committees in connection with missions and philanthropic institutions of the city. Several students have had charge of mission churches in various parts of the city while others have been assistants in Sunday School work or have conducted Teacher Training Classes. Those who are interested in settlement work have unusual opportunities of familiarizing themselves with this form of social activity at the Wood's Run Industrial Home, the Kingsley House, the Heinz Settlement, and the Manchester Educational Center.

Bureau of Preaching Supply

A bureau of preaching supply has been organized by the Faculty for the purpose of apportioning supply work, as request comes in from vacant churches. The allotment of places is in alphabetical order. The members of the senior class and regularly enrolled graduate students have the preference over the middle class, and the middle class in turn over the junior.

GYMNASIUM

Physical Training

Memorial Hall contains a gymnasium which is equipped with the most modern apparatus. Its floor and walls are properly spaced and marked for basket ball and handball courts. It is open to students five hours daily. The students also have access to the public tennis courts in West Park.

Fees and Expenses

Fees for one year's work, Bachelor of Sacred Theology or Master of Sacred Theology.

In the case of partial and post-graduate students the fee is $10.00 per semester for one course and $5.00 for each additional course, the maximum charge for a semester being $29.00.

Board is payable weekly, in advance. Tuition, rent, and all other fees are payable quarterly—at registration each semester, and November 15th and April 1st.

All students who reside in the dormitory are required to take their meals in the Seminary dining hall. The price for boarding is $6.50 weekly, in advance.

DIPLOMA FEES: The diploma fee for each degree (S.T.B. and S.T.M.) is $5.00, and is to be paid at the time the thesis is presented.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before graduation.

Students in need of financial assistance should apply for aid, through their Presbyteries, to the Board of Education. The sums thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.

Scholarship Aid

1. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students needing financial assistance may receive aid. Students intending to enroll and desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the President.

2. The distribution is made in four installments: October 1st, November 15th, at registration second semester, and April 1st.

3. A student whose grade falls below "C", or 75 per cent, or who has five absences from class exercises without satisfactory excuse, shall forfeit his right to aid from this source. The following are not considered valid grounds for excuse from recitations: (1) work on Presbytery parts; (2) preaching or evangelistic engagements, unless special permission has been received from the Faculty (Application must be made in writing for such permission); (3) private business, unless imperative.

4. A student who so desires, may borrow his scholarship aid, with the privilege of repaying after graduation, this loan to be without interest.

5. A student must take, as the minimum, twelve (12) hours of recitation work per week in order to obtain scholarship aid and have the privilege of a room in the Seminary dormitory. Work in Elocution and Music is regarded as supplementary to these twelve hours.

6. Post-graduate students are not eligible to scholarship aid, and, in order to have the privilege of occupying a room in the dormitory, must take twelve hours of recitation and lecture work per week.

7. No scholarship aid will be given to any man conditioned in the previous year who does not satisfy his conditions by November first.

8. Only in exceptional cases, to be determined by the Faculty, are scholarships granted to students who are married before entering the Seminary. Students marrying after being enrolled shall forfeit their scholarships and shall become ineligible for further scholarship aid. In the present economic situation the faculty urgently recommends that students defer marriage until they have graduated, unless they have adequate financial resources.

Loan Funds

The Rev. James H. Lyon, a member of the Class of 1864, has founded a loan fund by a gift of $200. Needy students may borrow small sums from this fund at a low rate of interest.

Recently a friend of the Seminary, by a gift of $2500, established a Students' Loan and Self-help Fund. The principal is to be kept intact and the income is available for small loans to students.

General Educational Advantages

Pittsburgh is an ideal seat for a theological seminary, because it is one of the leading manufacturing and commercial cities of the country. It is obvious that a minister ought to come in contact with the problems of community life in one of the great throbbing centers of activity, where every social problem is intensified, in order to be able to enter into sympathetic and intelligent relations with the people of the churches and communities which he may be called on to serve. To put it in a word, a term of residence in Pittsburgh brings a man into vital contact with life in its many complex modern forms.

In the Pittsburgh area, which includes the Presbytery of Pittsburgh and contiguous Presbyteries, Beaver, Butler, Kittanning, Blairsville, Redstone, and Washington, we find some of the largest, most aggressive, and best equipped churches of our communion. The Presbytery of Pittsburgh alone has 132 churches and 203 ministers on its roll; seventeen of these churches have more than one thousand members. In 1942, it reported 71,575 church members, and 42,149 Sunday School members. In addition to the organized churches, The Presbytery of Pittsburgh, directly and through several of its strong churches, carries on mission work in approximately forty different stations. Every type of church activity and organization is represented in the churches of this Presbytery. A student has abundant opportunity to familiarize himself with the organization and methods of efficient church and missionary work, not merely through the study of a text book, but by personal observation and participation.

Not only do many of these churches carry on an extensive and aggressive program of social service, but in addition the student has access to the many social settlements and other centers of welfare work with which Pittsburgh is well supplied. Prospective students who are especially interested in this type of modern philanthropic activity will, on request, be furnished with detailed information on Pittsburgh as a social center.

In addition to being a manufacturing center, with the largest tonnage of any city in the world, Pittsburgh is the seat of a University famous for its unusual building, the Cathedral of Learning, with an enrollment of 13,726 (1941-2). Students of the Seminary have the privilege of attending the University and of receiving the Master's degree under certain conditions (cat. p. 54). Besides the University, there are the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the Pennsylvania College for Women, and the Pittsburgh Musical Institute. Mr. Earl B. Collins, our instructor in Church Music, is on the faculty of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute and of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and has also been the organist and musical director of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church since 1919. Some idea of Pittsburgh as a musical center may be gained from the fact that each week during the season from two to four or five concerts are announced for this city by the foremost artists and musical organizations of the country. To these should be added the free organ recitals which are given every Saturday by Marshall Bidwell, one of the world's best organists, in Carnegie Music Hall. Pittsburgh also occupies a prominent place as an art center, with the notable permanent and frequent transient exhibits in the Carnegie Institute.

A VIEW OF THE PARK FROM THE QUADRANGLE

In such a survey the library facilities of the city are not to be passed by. In addition to the Seminary library, which is exclusively theological in its scope and rich in its collections, there are the two Carnegie Libraries. The North Side Library, founded by Mr. Carnegie, in 1886, which is situated within a few blocks of the Seminary buildings, affords the student ready access to general literature of every type. The main Library, in connection with the Carnegie Institute, with its larger collections, is also available to the students. The Museum of the Carnegie Institute is of large educational value, and students will be well repaid by a careful survey of its collections.

Admission

The Seminary, while under Presbyterian control, is open to students of all denominations. As its special aim is the training of men for the Christian ministry, applicants for admission are requested to present satisfactory testimonials that they possess good natural talents, that they are prudent and discreet in their deportment, and that they are in full communion with some evangelical church; also that they have the requisite literary preparation for the studies of the theological course.

If an applicant for admission is not a college graduate, he is required to submit evidence that he has had an education which is a fair equivalent of a college course.

Pre-Seminary Curriculum

For the guidance of prospective students the following suggestions are offered in regard to their pre-seminary studies: As a foundation for his theological training a student should have a broad and comprehensive college education, commonly known as a "liberal arts" course.

The American Association of Theological Schools has suggested a basal minimum in a pre-seminary curriculum as follows:

Fields	Semesters	Sem. hours
English	4	8-12
Composition and literature
Philosophy	2	4- 6

At least two of the following:
Introduction to philosophy
History of philosophy
Ethics
Logic
History	2	4- 6
Psychology	1	2- 3
A foreign language	4	12-16

At least two of the following, one of which should be Greek:
Latin
Greek
Hebrew
French
German
Natural sciences	2	4- 6
Physical or biological
Social sciences	2	4- 6

At least two of the following:
Economics
Sociology
Government or political science
Social psychology
Education

In recommending this basal minimum the Association commented on two characteristics of the pre-seminary curriculum which it had proposed, as follows:

“First, it is a ‘liberal arts’ curriculum, containing none of the elements commonly known as ‘pre-professional'. In our judgment the appropriate foundations for a minister's later professional studies lie in a broad and comprehensive college education, while the normal place for a minister's professional studies is the theological school. For this reason it contains no reference to courses dealing specifically with religion and the Church.

"Second, it is a statement in minimum terms. We make no attempt to list all the work which it would be profitable for a student to do. It is thus possible to include many other elements in one's college courses, while still working in what the Association regards as the first essentials."

Students from Other Theological Seminaries

Students coming from other theological seminaries are required to present certificates of good standing and regular dismissal before they can be received.

Graduate Students

Those who desire to be enrolled for post-graduate study will be admitted to matriculation on presenting their diplomas or certificates of graduation from other theological seminaries.

Resident licentiates and ministers have the privilege of attending lectures in all departments.

Seminary Year

The Seminary year, consisting of one term, is divided into two semesters of eighteen weeks each, the second semester commencing eighteen weeks after the opening of the Seminary. The Seminary Year begins on the second or third Tuesday of September and continues for thirty-six weeks in every year, Commencement Day being the Thursday before the meeting of the General Assembly. The number of vacations and their dates are determined by the Board. It is expected that every student will be present at the opening of the session, when the rooms will be allotted. The more important days are indicated in the calendar (p. 3).

Examinations

Examinations, written or oral, are required in every department, and are held twice a year, or at the end of each semester. Students who do not pass satisfactory examinations may be re-examined at the beginning of the next term, but, failing then to give satisfaction, will be regarded as partial or will be required to enter the class corresponding to the one to which they belonged the previous year.

In addition to semester examinations, candidates for the S.T.B. degree are required to take a comprehensive examination six weeks preceding graduation. This comprehensive examination will be set in the following subjects: Bible, including interpretation of important passages; Church History; Theology; and Church Government.

The Bachelor's Degree

Upon graduation students receive the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology. The degree will be granted to those who are graduates of an accredited college or who sustain satisfactory examinations in college subjects, and who have completed a course of three years' study, pursued in this or partly in this and partly in some other regular theological Seminary.

The candidates for the degree must pass satisfactory examinations in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, present an acceptable thesis, and satisfy all requirements for attendance.

Men who have taken the full course at another Seminary, including the departments of Hebrew and Greek Exegesis, Dogmatic Theology, Church History, and Pastoral Theology, and have received a diploma, will be entitled to the Bachelor's degree from this Seminary on condition: (1) that they take the equivalent of a full year's work in a single year or two years; (2) that they be subject to the usual rules governing our classroom work, such as regular attendance and recitations; (3) that they pass the examinations with the classes of which they are members; (4) it is a further condition that such students attend exercises in at least three departments, one of which shall be either Greek or Hebrew Exegesis.

Courses of Study

The growth of the elective system in colleges has resulted in a wide variation in the equipment of the students entering the Seminary, and the broadening of the scope of practical Christian activity has necessitated a specialized training for ministerial candidates. In recognition of these conditions, the curriculum has been developed to prepare men for five different types of ministerial work: (1) the regular pastorate; (2) the foreign field; (3) home missionary service; (4) religious education; (5) teaching the Bible in colleges.

The elective system has been introduced with such restrictions as seemed necessary in view of the general aim of the Seminary.

The elective courses are confined largely to the senior year, except that students who have already completed certain courses of the Seminary curriculum will not be required to take them again, but may select from the list of electives such courses as will fill in the entire quota of hours.

Students who come to the Seminary with inadequate preparation will be required to take certain elementary courses, e. g., Greek, Hebrew, Philosophy. In some cases this may entail a four years' course in the Seminary, but students are urged to do all preliminary work in colleges.

The faculty reserves the right to require supplementary study in any subject in which a student is deficient; and those who are unable to write clear and correct English must make up this deficiency before the close of the second year.

Seventeen hours of recitation and lecture work are required of Juniors, for the Middlers the requirement is sixteen hours, for the Seniors fourteen hours, and for Graduate Students twelve hours throughout the year. Anyone desiring to take more than the required number of hours must make special application to the Faculty, and no student who falls below the grade "A" in his regular work will be allowed to take additional courses. A student absent from twenty-five per cent of the classroom exercises in any course will not receive credit for that course.

In the senior year the only required courses are those in Practical Theology. N. T. Theology, O. T. Prophecy, and Christian Ethics and Social Teachings. The election of studies must be on the group system, one subject being regarded as major and another as minor; for example, a student electing N. T. as a major must take four hours in this department and in addition must take one course in a closely related subject, such as O. T. Theology or Exegesis. He must also write a thesis of not less than 4,000 words on some topic in the department from which he has selected his major.

In case he has graduated from another seminary, which does not require Greek and Hebrew for its diploma, the candidate must take in addition to the above requirements the following courses: Hebrew, 1 and 3; New Testament 13, or its equivalent; and 125, 126, 127.

(3) He must be in residence at this Seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to twelve hours per week of regular curriculum work.

amination. At the close of the year he shall pass a rigid examination in both major and minor subjects.

Relations with University of Pittsburgh

The post-graduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to the students of the Seminary. The requirements for the A. M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh are 24 course credits and six thesis credits; for the Ph. D. degree, 72 course credits and six thesis credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the Graduate Faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the Seminary who desire to secure credits at the University.

Graduates from the three-year theological course of Western Theological Seminary, who desire to take the A.M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of Religion and Religious Education, may transfer as many as 14 semester credits from the Seminary as advanced standing toward this degree. The remaining 10 course credits and six thesis credits required for the A.M. degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. A part of the 10 course credits may be taken in other fields of the University than Religion and Religious Education.

Graduates of Western Theological Seminary will be allowed a maximum of 30 graduate credits as advanced standing toward the Ph.D. degree in Religion and Religious Education. An additional amount of six graduate credits may be granted to students taking courses at the Seminary beyond the regular three-year theological course, in which cases the courses must be agreed upon by the Graduate School of the University of Pittsburgh.

The University of Pittsburgh will accept graduate credits from Western Theological Seminary in the fields of Biblical literature, church history, theology, history and philosophy of religion, and religious education.

The amount of advanced graduate standing granted to Seminary students, who choose to do their major work at the University in fields other than Religion and Religious Education will be determined by heads of these departments. The advanced standing for both the A.M. and Ph.D. degrees will vary somewhat with departments and students.

A regular summer session or semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the Seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

The procedure outlined in the foregoing paragraphs became effective February, 1933.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Permission in writing must be secured by the student from the Registrar of the Seminary in order to take advantage of this privilege.

Fellowships and Prizes

1. Fellowships. For the year 1943-4 the Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying $800, will be available. This fellowship will be assigned upon graduation to the member of the Senior Class who has the highest standing in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, but to no one falling below an average of 85 per cent. The Faculty reserve the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of post-graduate study within three years of the award, under the direction of the Faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pa., by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Rev. Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class, and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. It is awarded to a member of the Senior Class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made.

3. A prize in Hebrew is offered to that member of the Junior Class who maintains the highest standing in this subject throughout the junior year. The prize consists of a copy of the Oxford Hebrew-English Lexicon, a copy of the latest English translation of Gesenius-Kautzsch's Hebrew Grammar or a copy of Davidson's Hebrew Syntax, and a copy of the Hebrew Bible edited by Kittel.

4. All students reaching the grade "A" in all departments during the junior year will be entitled to a prize of $50, which will be paid in four installments in the middle year, provided that the recipient continues to maintain the grade "A" in all departments during the middle year. Prizes of the same amount and under similar conditions will be available for seniors, but no student whose attendance is unsatisfactory will be eligible for these prizes.

5. In May 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pa., established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of $25 each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1st.

6. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Greek exegesis, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for the 1942-3 assignment is James 2:14-26; and for 1943-4 it is II Cor. 5:11-19.

7. In September 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Hebrew, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for the 1942-3 assignment is Psalm 68; and for 1943-4 it is the Book of Ruth.

8. In July 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of $1,000, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the Junior Class of the Seminary. The assignment upon which the examination will be given is Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

9. An entrance prize of $300 is offered by the Seminary to college graduates presenting themselves for admission to the Junior Class. The scholarships will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination subject to the following conditions:

(I) Candidates must, not later than September 1st, indicate their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must be accompanied by certificates of college standing and mention of subjects elected for examination.

(II) Candidates must be graduates of high standing in the classical course of some accepted college or university.

(III) The examinations will be conducted on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of the opening week of the first semester.

(IV) The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list: (1) CLASSICAL GREEK—Greek Grammar, translation of Greek prose, Greek composition; (2) LATIN—Latin Grammar, translation of Latin prose, Latin composition; (3) HEBREW—Hebrew Grammar, translation of Hebrew prose, Hebrew composition; (4) GERMAN—translation of German into English and English into German; (5) FRENCH—translation of French into English and English into French; (6) PHILOSOPHY—(a) History of Philosophy, (b) Psychology, (c) Ethics, (d) Metaphysics; (7) HISTORY—(a) Ancient Oriental History, (b) Græco-Roman History to A. D. 476, (c) Mediæval History to the Reformation, (d) Modern History.

(V) Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination, among which subjects Greek shall always be included. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject. No more than one subject in Philosophy and no more than one subject in History may be chosen by any one candidate.

(VI) The awards of the scholarships will be made to the two competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below ninety per cent. The payment will be made in two in-installments, the first at the time the award is made, and the second on April 1st. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work or prolonged absence will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment. The winner of this prize is not eligible for scholarship during the Junior year.

The intention to compete for the prize scholarships should be made known, in writing, to the President.

10. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of $25.00 to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be given to the student in the Senior Class who by vote of the student body has shown the greatest amount of Christian leadership during his Seminary life.

Donations and Bequests

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in Allegheny City, Pennsylvania". The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

I hereby give and bequeath to the Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:—

Note:—If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added:—The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate.

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world an additional endowment of $500,000 is imperatively necessary.

The Memorial idea may be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

Historical Sketch

The Western Theological Seminary was established in the year 1825. The reason for the founding of the Seminary is expressed in the resolution on the subject, adopted by the General Assembly of 1825, to wit: "It is expedient forthwith to establish a Theological Seminary in the West, to be styled the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States." The Assembly took active measures for carrying into execution the resolution which had been adopted, by electing a Board of Directors consisting of twenty-one ministers and nine ruling elders, and by instructing this Board to report to the next General Assembly a suitable location and such "alterations" in the plan of the Princeton Seminary as, in their judgment, might be necessary to accommodate it to the local situation of the "Western Seminary".

The General Assembly of 1827, by a bare majority of two votes, selected Allegheny as the location for the new institution. The first session was formally commenced on November 16, 1827, with a class of four young men who were instructed by the Rev. E. P. Swift and the Rev. Joseph Stockton.

During the one hundred seventeen years of her existence, 3,402 students have attended the classes of the Western Theological Seminary; and of this number, more than twenty-four hundred have been ordained as ministers of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. Her missionary alumni, two hundred and thirteen in number, many of them having distinguished careers, have preached the Gospel in every land where missionary enterprise is conducted.

LOCATION. The choice of location, as the history of the institution has shown, was wisely made. The Seminary in course of time ceased, indeed, to be western in the strict sense of the term; but it became central to one of the most important and influential sections of the Presbyterian Church, equally accessible to the West and East.

The buildings are situated near the summit of Ridge Avenue, Pittsburgh (North Side), mainly on West Park, one of the most attractive sections of the city. Within a block of the Seminary property some of the finest residences of Greater Pittsburgh are to be found, and at the close of the catalogue prospective students will find a map showing the beautiful environs of the institution. It is twenty minutes walk from the center of business in Pittsburgh, with a ready access to all portions of the city. In the midst of this community of more than 1,000,000 people and center of strong Presbyterian churches and church life, the students have unlimited opportunities of gaining familiarity with every type of modern church organization and work. The practical experience and insight which they are able to acquire, without detriment to their studies, are a most valuable element in their preparation for the ministry.

BUILDINGS. The first Seminary building was erected in the year 1831; it was situated on what is now known as Monument Hill. After its complete destruction by fire in 1854, a second building "Seminary Hall" was erected at the foot of Monument Hill, on Ridge Avenue facing West Park, and formally dedicated January 10, 1856. In turn this structure was partially destroyed by fire in 1887 and was immediately revamped. Seminary Hall was torn down November 1, 1914, to make room for the new buildings, Herron and Swift Halls.

The first dormitory was made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Hetty E. Beatty. It was erected in the year 1859 and was known as "Beatty Hall." This structure had become wholly inadequate to the needs of the institution by 1877, and the Rev. C. C. Beatty furnished the funds for a new dormitory which was known as "Memorial Hall", as Dr. Beatty wished to make the edifice commemorate the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church.

A library building, which was erected in 1872, has been replaced by a modern library equipment in the group of new buildings.

Present Seminary Buildings

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue, adjacent to West Park, in one of the most attractive sections of the North Side, Pittsburgh. They are easily reached by trolley and bus from the railroad stations, and other sections of the city.

HERRON HALL, named in memory of Rev. Francis Herron, D.D., one of the founders of the institution. The main architectural feature of this building is a tower, through which entrance is had to the quadrangle. While this tower enhances the beauty of the building, all the space in it has been carefully used for offices and classrooms.

SWIFT HALL, named in memory of Rev. Elisha P. Swift, D.D., another founder of the Seminary and for a period a professor, forms the rear of the quadrangle. It contains the chapel which seats two hundred, and the Library, which has a capacity for 165,000 volumes. The reference room and the administrative offices of the library, with seminar rooms, are found on the second floor. The reference room, 88 by 38 feet, is equipped and decorated in the mediæval Gothic style, with capacity for 10,000 volumes.

Both Herron and Swift Halls were dedicated on Commencement Day, May 4, 1916.

MEMORIAL HALL, the students' residence, was erected in 1911-12 on the site of an older building, with the name of the former structure retained as it commemorated the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church in 1870. It is laid out in the shape of a Y, which is an unusual design for a college building, but brings direct sunlight to every room. Another noticeable feature of this dormitory is that there is not a single inside room of any kind. The center is surmounted with a beautiful tower in the Oxford manner. It contains suites of rooms for seventy students, together with a handsomely furnished social hall, a well equipped gymnasium, and a commodious dining room. A full description of these public rooms will be found on other pages of this catalogue.

LOWRIE HALL, which was erected in 1933, is a memorial to Rev. John Cameron Lowrie, D.D., of the Class of 1832, the first graduate of the Seminary to go to the Foreign Mission field. Dr. Lowrie was the founder of Presbyterian Missions in North India, and served as a Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., from 1838 to 1891.

The building contains seven apartments for the use of missionaries during their furloughs. These apartments vary in size from suites of two rooms with kitchenette and bath to an apartment with five rooms. All the suites are furnished, and equipped with modern electrical appliances for housekeeping, and the latest type of plumbing. The heating system is connected with the central plant of the institution. The rental for these apartments is nominal. An early application is suggested to prospective occupants, who can secure full information with a plan of the suites from the President of the Seminary.

The architecture of the entire group is the English Collegiate Gothic of the type which prevails in the college buildings at Cambridge, England. The material is tapestry brick, trimmed with gray terra cotta of the Indiana limestone shade.

Marvin Social Hall

Memorial Hall contains a large social room which occupies an entire floor in one wing. This handsome room was erected and furnished by the late Mr. Sylvester S. Marvin, of the Board of Trustees, and his two sons, Walter R. and Earl R. Marvin, as a memorial to Mrs. Matilda Ramsey Marvin. The Social Hall has recently been redecorated and refurnished in a most attractive fashion. It is the center of the social life of the student body, and musicals and socials are held from time to time.

REFERENCE LIBRARY—SWIFT HALL

Dining Hall

A commodious and handsomely equipped dining hall was included in the new Memorial Hall. It is located in the top story of the left wing, with the kitchen adjoining in the rear wing. It is the aim of the Trustees of the Seminary to furnish good wholesome food at cost; but incidentally the assembling of the student body three times a day has strengthened, to a marked degree, the social and spiritual life of the institution.

Library

An ample and choice collection of books is now housed in the new library in Swift Hall, the south wing of the group of buildings dedicated at the commencement season, 1916. This steel frame and fireproof structure is English Collegiate Gothic in architectural design and provides the library with an external equipment which, for beauty and completeness, is scarcely surpassed by any theological institution on this continent. The handsome beam-ceilinged reading room is furnished in keeping with the architecture. It is equipped with individual reading lamps and accommodates many hundred circulating volumes, besides reference books and current periodicals. Adjoining this are rooms for library administration. There is also a large, quiet seminar room for all those who wish to conduct researches, where the volumes that the library contains treating particular subjects may be assembled and used at convenience. A stack room with a capacity for about 165,000 volumes has been provided and now has a steel stack equipment with space for about 55,000 volumes.

Some years ago the Library came into possession of a unique hymnological collection of great value. It consists of 9 to 10 thousand volumes assembled by the late Mr. James Warrington, of Philadelphia. During his lifetime Mr. Warrington made the study of Church Music his chief pastime and had gathered together all the material of any value published in Great Britain and America dealing with his favorite theme. The library is exceedingly fortunate in the acquisition of this noteworthy collection, which will not only serve to enhance the work of the music department of the Seminary but offers to scholars and investigators, interested in the field of British and American Church Music, facilities unequaled by any theological collection in the country. The collection, together with Mr. Warrington's original catalogue and bibliographical material, occupies a separate room in the new building. The latter has been arranged and placed in new filing cabinets, thus rendering it convenient and accessible. Already in recent years, before the purchase of Mr. Warrington's collection had been thought of for the library, the department of hymnology had been enlarged, and embraced much that relates to the history and study of Church Music.

Other departments of the library also have been built up and are now much more complete. The mediæval historians of Europe are well represented in excellent editions, and the collection of authorities on the Papacy is quite large. These collections, both for secular and church history, afford great assistance in research and original work. The department of sermons is supplied with the best examples of preaching—ancient and modern—while every effort is made to obtain literature which bears upon the complete furnishing of the preacher and evangelist. To this end the missionary literature is rich in biography, travel, and education. Constant additions of the best writers on the original languages and Old Testament history are being made, and the library grows richer in the works of the best scholars of Europe and America. The department of New Testament Exegesis is well developed and being increased, not only by the best commentaries and exegetical works, but also by those which through history, essay, and sociological study illuminate and portray the times, people, and customs of the Gospel Age. The library possesses a choice selection of works upon theology, philosophy, and ethics, and additions are being made of volumes which discuss the fundamental principles. While it is not thought desirable to include every author, the leading writers are given a place without regard to their creed. Increasing attention is being given to those writers who deal with the great social problems and the practical application of Christianity to the questions of ethical and social life. The number of works on the shelves of the library dealing with religious education has multiplied many fold in recent years, and new books in this important field are being added constantly.

The number of volumes in the library at present is, approximately, 47,000. This reckoning is exclusive of the Warrington collection, and neither does it include unbound pamphlet material. About one hundred periodicals are currently received, not including annual reports, year books, government documents, and irregular continuations. With the exception of the Warrington Collection, a modern card catalogue covers all the bound volumes in the library.

The library is essentially theological, though it includes much not to be strictly defined by that term; for general literature the students have access to the Carnegie Library, which is situated within five minutes walk of the Seminary buildings.

The services of the library are extended to all through its circulating and reference departments. Books are loaned by mail to persons living at a distance from Pittsburgh, the borrower paying the postage and insurance to and from the library. The reference department will gladly take care of any questions brought to its attention. We welcome your patronage.

The library is open on week days to all ministers and others, without restriction of creed, subject to the same rules as apply to students. Hours are from 9 to 5; Saturdays from 9 to 12. Closed during August.

The James L. Shields Book Purchasing Memorial Fund, with an endowment of $1,000, was founded by the late Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, in memory of her father, the late James L. Shields, of Blairsville, Pennsylvania.

Religious Exercises

As the Seminary does not maintain public services on the Lord's Day, each student is expected to connect himself with one of the congregations in Pittsburgh, and thus to be under pastoral care and to perform his duties as a church member.

Abundant opportunities for Christian work are afforded by the various churches, missions, and benevolent societies of this large community. This kind of labor has been found no less useful for practical training than the work of supplying pulpits. Daily prayers at 11:25 A. M., which all the students are required to attend, are conducted by the Faculty. A meeting for prayer and conference, conducted by the professors, is held every Wednesday morning, at which addresses are made by the professors and invited speakers.

Senior Preaching Service

(See Study Courses 74, 47, 55.)

Public worship is observed every Monday evening in the Seminary Chapel, from October to April, under the direction of the professor of homiletics. This service is intended to be in all respects what a regular church service should be. It is attended by the members of the Faculty, the entire student body, and friends of the Seminary generally. It is conducted by members of the Senior Class in rotation. The Cecilia Choir is in attendance to lead the singing and furnish a suitable anthem. The service is designed to minister to the spiritual life of the Seminary and also to furnish a model of Presbyterian form and order. The exercises are all reviewed by the professor in charge at his next subsequent meeting with the Senior Class. Members of the Faculty are also expected to offer to the officiating student any suggestions they may deem desirable.

Student Association

This society has been recently organized under the direction of the Faculty, which is represented on each one of the committees. Students are ipso facto and members of the Faculty ex officio members of the Student Association. Meetings are held weekly, the exercises being alternately missionary and devotional.

According to a rule of the faculty only those students who are in good standing in all their courses of study may be nominated or elected to responsible offices in connection with the Student Association or to any delegation representing the student body of the Seminary.

Christian Work

The City of Pittsburgh affords unusual opportunities for an adequate study of the manifold forms of modern Christian activity. Students are encouraged to engage in some form of Christian work other than preaching, as it is both a stimulus to devotional life and forms an important element in a training for the pastorate. Regular religious work of various types has been carried on under the direction of student committees in connection with missions and philanthropic institutions of the city. Several students have had charge of mission churches in various parts of the city while others have been assistants in Sunday School work or have conducted Teacher Training Classes. Those who are interested in settlement work have unusual opportunities of familiarizing themselves with this form of social activity at the Wood's Run Industrial Home, the Kingsley House, the Heinz Settlement, and the Manchester Educational Center.

Bureau of Preaching Supply

A bureau of preaching supply has been organized by the Faculty for the purpose of apportioning supply work, as request comes in from vacant churches. The allotment of places is in alphabetical order. The members of the senior class and regularly enrolled graduate students have the preference over the middle class, and the middle class in turn over the junior.

Physical Training

Memorial Hall contains a gymnasium which is equipped with the most modern apparatus. Its floor and walls are properly spaced and marked for basket ball and handball courts. It is open to students five hours daily. The students also have access to the public tennis courts in West Park.

Students in need of financial assistance should apply for aid, through their Presbyteries, to the Board of Education. The sums thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.

Scholarship Aid

1. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students needing financial assistance may receive aid.

Students intending to enroll and desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the President.

2. The distribution is made in four installments: October 1st, November 15th, at registration second semester, and April 1st.

Loan Funds

The Rev. James H. Lyon, a member of the Class of 1864, has founded a loan fund by a gift of $200. Needy students may borrow small sums from this fund at a low rate of interest.

Recently a friend of the Seminary, by a gift of $2500, established a Students' Loan and Self-help Fund. The principal is to be kept intact and the income is available for small loans to students.

General Educational Advantages

Pittsburgh is an ideal seat for a theological seminary, because it is one of the leading manufacturing and commercial cities of the country. It is obvious that a minister ought to come in contact with the problems of community life in one of the great throbbing centers of activity, where every social problem is intensified, in order to be able to enter into sympathetic and intelligent relations with the people of the churches and communities which he may be called on to serve. To put it in a word, a term of residence in Pittsburgh brings a man into vital contact with life in its many complex modern forms.

In the Pittsburgh area, which includes the Presbytery of Pittsburgh and contiguous Presbyteries, Beaver, Butler, Kittanning, Blairsville, Redstone, and Washington, we find some of the largest, most aggressive, and best equipped churches of our communion. The Presbytery of Pittsburgh alone has 134 churches and 192 ministers on its roll; seventeen of these churches have more than one thousand members. In 1943, it reported 71,428 church members, and 39,408 Sunday School members. In addition to the organized churches, The Presbytery of Pittsburgh, directly and through several of its strong churches, carries on mission work in approximately forty different stations. Every type of church activity and organization is represented in the churches of this Presbytery. A student has abundant opportunity to familiarize himself with the organization and methods of efficient church and missionary work, not merely through the study of a text book, but by personal observation and participation.

Not only do many of these churches carry on an extensive and aggressive program of social service, but in addition the student has access to the many social settlements and other centers of welfare work with which Pittsburgh is well supplied. Prospective students who are especially interested in this type of modern philanthropic activity will, on request, be furnished with detailed information on Pittsburgh as a social center.

In addition to being a manufacturing center, with the largest tonnage of any city in the world, Pittsburgh is the seat of a University famous for its unusual building, the Cathedral of Learning, with an enrollment of 11,951 (1942-3). Students of the Seminary have the privilege of attending the University and of receiving the Master's degree under certain conditions (cat. p. 54). Besides the University, there are the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the Pennsylvania College for Women, and the Pittsburgh Musical Institute. Mr. Earl B. Collins, our instructor in Church Music, is on the faculty of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute and of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and has also been the organist and musical director of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church since 1919. Some idea of Pittsburgh as a musical center may be gained from the fact that each week during the season from two to four or five concerts are announced for this city by the foremost artists and musical organizations of the country. To these should be added the free organ recitals which are given every Saturday by Marshall Bidwell, one of the world's best organists, in Carnegie Music Hall. Pittsburgh also occupies a prominent place as an art center, with the notable permanent and frequent transient exhibits in the Carnegie Institute.

In such a survey the library facilities of the city are not to be passed by. In addition to the Seminary library, which is exclusively theological in its scope and rich in its collections, there are the two Carnegie Libraries. The North Side Library, founded by Mr. Carnegie, in 1886, which is situated within a few blocks of the Seminary buildings, affords the student ready access to general literature of every type. The main Library, in connection with the Carnegie Institute, with its larger collections, is also available to the students. The Museum of the Carnegie Institute is of large educational value, and students will be well repaid by a careful survey of its collections.

Admission

The Seminary, while under Presbyterian control, is open to students of all denominations. As its special aim is the training of men for the Christian ministry, applicants for admission are requested to present satisfactory testimonials that they possess good natural talents, that they are prudent and discreet in their deportment, and that they are in full communion with some evangelical church; also that they have the requisite literary preparation for the studies of the theological course.

If an applicant for admission is not a college graduate, he is required to submit evidence that he has had an education which is a fair equivalent of a college course.

Pre-Seminary Curriculum

For the guidance of prospective students the following suggestions are offered in regard to their pre-seminary studies: As a foundation for his theological training a student should have a broad and comprehensive college education, commonly known as a "liberal arts" course.

The American Association of Theological Schools has suggested a basal minimum in a pre-seminary curriculum as follows:

Fields	Semesters	Sem. hours
English	4	8-12
Composition and literature
Philosophy	2	4- 6
At least two of the following:
Introduction to philosophy
History of philosophy
Ethics
Logic
History	2	4- 6
Psychology	1	2- 3
A foreign language	4	12-16
At least two of the following, one of which should be Greek:
Latin
Greek
Hebrew
French
German
Natural sciences	2	4- 6
Physical or biological
Social sciences	2	4- 6
At least two of the following:
Economics
Sociology
Government or political science
Social psychology
Education

In recommending this basal minimum the Association commented on two characteristics of the pre-seminary curriculum which it had proposed, as follows:

“First, it is a ‘liberal arts’ curriculum, containing none of the elements commonly known as ‘pre-professional’. In our judgment the appropriate foundations for a minister’s later professional studies lie in a broad and comprehensive college education, while the normal place for a minister's professional studies is the theological school. For this reason it contains no reference to courses dealing specifically with religion and the Church.

Students from Other Theological Seminaries

Students coming from other theological seminaries are required to present certificates of good standing and regular dismissal before they can be received.

Graduate Students

Those who desire to be enrolled for post-graduate study will be admitted to matriculation on presenting their diplomas or certificates of graduation from other theological seminaries.

Resident licentiates and ministers have the privilege of attending lectures in all departments.

Seminary Year

The Seminary year, consisting of one term, is divided into two semesters of eighteen weeks each, the second semester commencing eighteen weeks after the opening of the Seminary. The Seminary Year begins on the second or third Tuesday of September and continues for thirty-six weeks in every year, Commencement Day being the Thursday before the meeting of the General Assembly. The number of vacations and their dates are determined by the Board. It is expected that every student will be present at the opening of the session, when the rooms will be allotted. The more important days are indicated in the calendar (p. 3).

Examinations

Examinations, written or oral, are required in every department, and are held twice a year, or at the end of each semester. Students who do not pass satisfactory examinations may be re-examined at the beginning of the next term, but, failing then to give satisfaction, will be regarded as partial or will be required to enter the class corresponding to the one to which they belonged the previous year.

In addition to semester examinations, candidates for the S.T.B. degree are required to take a comprehensive examination six weeks preceding graduation. This comprehensive examination will be set in the following subjects: Bible, including interpretation of important passages; Church History; Theology; and Church Government.

The Bachelor's Degree

Upon graduation students receive the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology. The degree will be granted to those who are graduates of an accredited college or who sustain satisfactory examinations in college subjects, and who have completed a course of three years study, pursued in this or partly in this and partly in some other regular theological Seminary.

The candidates for the degree must pass satisfactory examinations in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, present an acceptable thesis, and satisfy all requirements for attendance.

Men who have taken the full course at another Seminary, including the departments of Hebrew and Greek Exegesis, Dogmatic Theology, Church History, and Pastoral Theology, and have received a diploma, will be entitled to the Bachelor's degree from this Seminary on condition: (1) that they take the equivalent of a full year's work in a single year or two years; (2) that they be subject to the usual rules governing our classroom work, such as regular attendance and recitations; (3) that they pass the examinations with the classes of which they are members; (4) it is a further condition that such students attend exercises in at least three departments, one of which shall be either Greek or Hebrew Exegesis.

Courses of Study

The growth of the elective system in colleges has resulted in a wide variation in the equipment of the students entering the Seminary, and the broadening of the scope of practical Christian activity has necessitated a specialized training for ministerial candidates. In recognition of these conditions, the curriculum has been developed to prepare men for five different types of ministerial work: (1) the regular pastorate; (2) the foreign field; (3) home missionary service; (4) religious education; (5) teaching the Bible in colleges.

The elective system has been introduced with such restrictions as seemed necessary in view of the general aim of the Seminary.

The elective courses are confined largely to the senior year, except that students who have already completed certain courses of the Seminary curriculum will not be required to take them again, but may select from the list of electives such courses as will fill in the entire quota of hours.

Students who come to the Seminary with inadequate preparation will be required to take certain elementary courses, e. g., Greek, Hebrew, Philosophy. In some cases this may entail a four years' course in the Seminary, but students are urged to do all preliminary work in colleges.

The faculty reserves the right to require supplementary study in any subject in which a student is deficient; and those who are unable to write clear and correct English must make up this deficiency before the close of the second year.

Seventeen hours of recitation and lecture work are required of Juniors, for the Middlers the requirement is sixteen hours, for the Seniors fourteen hours, and for Graduate Students twelve hours throughout the year. Anyone desiring to take more than the required number of hours must make special application to the Faculty, and no student who falls below the grade "A" in his regular work will be allowed to take additional courses. A student absent from twenty-five per cent of the classroom exercises in any course will not receive credit for that course.

In the senior year the only required courses are those in Practical Theology. N. T. Theology, O. T. Prophecy, and Christian Ethics and Social Teachings. The election of studies must be on the group system, one subject being regarded as major and another as minor; for example, a student electing N. T. as a major must take four hours in this department and in addition must take one course in a closely related subject, such as O. T. Theology or Exegesis. He must also write a thesis of not less than 4,000 words on some topic in the department from which he has selected his major.

English Bible

Great emphasis is laid upon the study of the English Bible through the entire Seminary course. In fact, more time is devoted to the study of the Bible in English than to any other single subject. For graduation, 94 semester hours of classroom work are required of each student. Of this total, 18 semester hours are taken up with the exact scientific study of the Bible in the English version, or in other words, almost one-fifth of the student's time is concentrated on the Bible in English. In addition to this minimum requirement, elective courses occupying 30 semester hours, are offered to students. For details in regard to courses in the English Bible, see under Old Testament Literature, p. 37f. and New Testament Literature, p. 39f. See especially the following courses:

This degree will be granted under the following conditions:

(1) The applicant must have a Bachelor's degree from a college of recognized standing.

(2) He must be a graduate of this or of some other theological seminary. In case he has graduated from another seminary, which does not require Greek and Hebrew for its diploma, the candidate must take in addition to the above requirements the following courses: Hebrew, 1 and 3; New Testament 13, or its equivalent; and 125, 126, 127.

(3) He must be in residence at this Seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to twelve hours per week of regular curriculum work.

(4) He shall be required to devote two-thirds of said time to one subject, which will be called a major, and the remainder to another subject termed a minor.

In the department of the major he shall be required to write a thesis on an approved theme. The subject of this thesis must be presented to the professor at the head of this department for approval, not later than November 15th of the academic year at the close of which the degree is to be conferred. By April 1st a typewritten copy of this thesis is to be in the hands of the professor for examination. At the close of the year he shall pass a rigid examination in both major and minor subjects.

Relations with University of Pittsburgh

The post-graduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to the students of the Seminary. The requirements for the A. M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh are 24 course credits and six thesis credits; for the Ph. D. degree, 72 course credits and six thesis credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the Graduate Faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the Seminary who desire to secure credits at the University.

Graduates from the three-year theological course of Western Theological Seminary, who desire to take the A.M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of Religion and Religious Education, may transfer as many as 14 semester credits from the Seminary as advanced standing toward this degree. The remaining 10 course credits and six thesis credits required for the A.M. degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. A part of the 10 course credits may be taken in other fields of the University than Religion and Religious Education.

Graduates of Western Theological Seminary will be allowed a maximum of 30 graduate credits as advanced standing toward the Ph.D. degree in Religion and Religious Education. An additional amount of six graduate credits may be granted to students taking courses at the Seminary beyond the regular three-year theological course, in which cases the courses must be agreed upon by the Graduate School of the University of Pittsburgh.

The University of Pittsburgh will accept graduate credits from Western Theological Seminary in the fields of Biblical literature, church history, theology, history and philosophy of religion, and religious education.

The amount of advanced graduate standing granted to Seminary students, who choose to do their major work at the University in fields other than Religion and Religious Education will be determined by heads of these departments. The advanced standing for both the A.M. and Ph.D. degrees will vary somewhat with departments and students.

A regular summer session or semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the Seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

The procedure outlined in the foregoing paragraphs became effective February, 1933.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Permission in writing must be secured by the student from the Registrar of the Seminary in order to take advantage of this privilege.

Fellowships and Prizes

1. Fellowships. For the year 1944-5 the Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying $800, will be available. This fellowship will be assigned upon graduation to the member of the Senior Class who has the highest standing in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, but to no one falling below an average of 85 per cent. The Faculty reserve the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of post-graduate study within three years of the award, under the direction of the Faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pa., by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Rev. Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class, and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. It is awarded to a member of the Senior Class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made.

3. A prize in Hebrew is offered to that member of the Junior Class who maintains the highest standing in this subject throughout the junior year. The prize consists of a copy of the Oxford Hebrew-English Lexicon, a copy of the latest English translation of Gesenius-Kautzsch's Hebrew Grammar or a copy of Davidson's Hebrew Syntax, and a copy of the Hebrew Bible edited by Kittel.

4. All students reaching the grade "A" in all departments during the junior year will be entitled to a prize of $50, which will be paid in four installments in the middle year, provided that the recipient continues to maintain the grade "A" in all departments during the middle year. Prizes of the same amount and under similar conditions will be available for seniors, but no student whose attendance is unsatisfactory will be eligible for these prizes.

5. In May 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pa., established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of $25 each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1st.

6. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Greek exegesis, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for the 1943-4 assignment is ~~II Cor. 5:11-19~~; and for 1944-5 it is I Cor. 15:20-34.

7. In September 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Hebrew, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for the 1943-4 assignment is the Book of Ruth; and for 1944-5 it is the Book of Jonah. Ruth

8. In July 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of $1,000, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the Junior Class of the Seminary. The assignment upon which the examination will be given is Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

9. An entrance prize of $300 is offered by the Seminary to college graduates presenting themselves for admission to the Junior Class. The scholarships will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination subject to the following conditions:

(I) Candidates must, not later than September 1st, indicate their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must be accompanied by certificates of college standing and mention of subjects elected for examination.

(II) Candidates must be graduates of high standing in the classical course of some accepted college or university.

(III) The examinations will be conducted on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of the opening week of the first semester.

(IV) The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list: (1) CLASSICAL GREEK—Greek Grammar, translation of Greek prose, Greek composition; (2) LATIN—Latin Grammar, translation of Latin prose, Latin composition; (3) HEBREW—Hebrew Grammar, translation of Hebrew prose, Hebrew composition; (4) GERMAN—translation of German into English and English into German; (5) FRENCH—translation of French into English and English into French; (6) PHILOSOPHY—(a) History of Philosophy, (b) Psychology, (c) Ethics, (d) Metaphysics; (7) HISTORY—(a) Ancient Oriental History, (b) Græco-Roman History to A. D. 476, (c) Mediæval History to the Reformation, (d) Modern History.

(V) Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination, among which subjects Greek shall always be included. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject. No more than one subject in Philosophy and no more than one subject in History may be chosen by any one candidate.

(VI) The awards of the scholarships will be made to the two competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below ninety per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made, and the second on April 1st. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work or prolonged absence will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment. The winner of this prize is not eligible for scholarship during the Junior year.

The intention to compete for the prize scholarships should be made known, in writing, to the President.

10. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of $25.00 to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be given to the student in the Senior Class who by vote of the student body has shown the greatest amount of Christian leadership during his Seminary life.

Donations and Bequests

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania". The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

I hereby give and bequeath to the Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:—

Note:—If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added:—The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate.

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world an additional endowment of $500,000 is imperatively necessary.

The Memorial idea may be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

Historical Sketch

The Western Theological Seminary was established in the year 1825. The reason for the founding of the Seminary is expressed in the resolution on the subject, adopted by the General Assembly of 1825, to wit: "It is expedient forthwith to establish a Theological Seminary in the West, to be styled the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States." The Assembly took active measures for carrying into execution the resolution which had been adopted, by electing a Board of Directors consisting of twenty-one ministers and nine ruling elders, and by instructing this Board to report to the next General Assembly a suitable location and such "alterations" in the plan of the Princeton Seminary as, in their judgment, might be necessary to accommodate it to the local situation of the "Western Seminary".

The General Assembly of 1827, by a bare majority of two votes, selected Allegheny as the location for the new institution. The first session was formally commenced on November 16, 1827, with a class of four young men who were instructed by the Rev. E. P. Swift and the Rev. Joseph Stockton.

During the one hundred eighteen years of her existence, 3,425 students have attended the classes of the Western Theological Seminary; and of this number, more than twenty-four hundred have been ordained as ministers of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. Her missionary alumni, two hundred and thirteen in number, many of them having distinguished careers, have preached the Gospel in every land where missionary enterprise is conducted.

LOCATION. The choice of location, as the history of the institution has shown, was wisely made. The Seminary in course of time ceased, indeed, to be western in the strict sense of the term; but it became central to one of the most important and influential sections of the Presbyterian Church, equally accessible to the West and East.

The buildings are situated near the summit of Ridge Avenue, Pittsburgh (North Side), mainly on West Park, one of the most attractive sections of the city. Within a few blocks of the Seminary property is the North Side Carnegie Library, the North Side Y.M.C.A., and the beautiful new Buhl Planetarium. Accessible also is a large shopping district including a fine department store. It is twenty minutes walk from the center of business in Pittsburgh, with a ready access to all portions of the city. In the midst of this community of more than 1,000,000 people and center of strong Presbyterian churches and church life, the students have unlimited opportunities of gaining familiarity with every type of modern church organization and work. The practical experience and insight which they are able to acquire, without detriment to their studies, are a most valuable element in their preparation for the ministry.

BUILDINGS. The first Seminary building was erected in the year 1831; it was situated on what is now known as Monument Hill. After its complete destruction by fire in 1854, a second building "Seminary Hall" was erected at the foot of Monument Hill, on Ridge Avenue facing West Park, and formally dedicated January 10, 1856. In turn this structure was partially destroyed by fire in 1887 and was immediately revamped. Seminary Hall was torn down November 1, 1914, to make room for the new buildings, Herron and Swift Halls.

The first dormitory was made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Hetty E. Beatty. It was erected in the year 1859 and was known as "Beatty Hall." This structure had become wholly inadequate to the needs of the institution by 1877, and the Rev. C. C. Beatty furnished the funds for a new dormitory which was known as "Memorial Hall", as Dr. Beatty wished to make the edifice commemorate the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church.

A library building, which was erected in 1872, has been replaced by a modern library equipment in the group of new buildings.

Present Seminary Buildings

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue, adjacent to West Park, in one of the most attractive sections of the North Side, Pittsburgh. They are easily reached by trolley and bus from the railroad stations, and other sections of the city.

HERRON HALL, named in memory of Rev. Francis Herron, D.D., one of the founders of the institution. The main architectural feature of this building is a tower, through which entrance is had to the quadrangle. While this tower enhances the beauty of the building, all the space in it has been carefully used for offices and classrooms.

SWIFT HALL, named in memory of Rev. Elisha P. Swift, D.D., another founder of the Seminary and for a period a professor, forms the rear of the quadrangle. It contains the chapel which seats two hundred, and the Library, which has a capacity for 165,000 volumes. The reference room and the administrative offices of the library, with seminar rooms, are found on the second floor. The reference room, 88 by 38 feet, is equipped and decorated in the mediæval Gothic style, with capacity for 10,000 volumes.

Both Herron and Swift Halls were dedicated on Commencement Day, May 4, 1916.

MEMORIAL HALL, the students' residence, was erected in 1911-12 on the site of an older building, with the name of the former structure retained as it commemorated the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church in 1870. It is laid out in the shape of a Y, which is an unusual design for a college building, but brings direct sunlight to every room. Another noticeable feature of this dormitory is that there is not a single inside room of any kind. The center is surmounted with a beautiful tower in the Oxford manner. It contains suites of rooms for seventy students, together with a handsomely furnished social hall, a well equipped gymnasium, and a commodious dining room. A full description of these public rooms will be found on other pages of this catalogue.

LOWRIE HALL, which was erected in 1933, is a memorial to Rev. John Cameron Lowrie, D.D., of the Class of 1832, the first graduate of the Seminary to go to the Foreign Mission field. Dr. Lowrie was the founder of Presbyterian Missions in North India, and served as a Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., from 1838 to 1891.

The building contains seven apartments for the use of missionaries during their furloughs. These apartments vary in size from suites of two rooms with kitchenette and bath to an apartment with five rooms. All the suites are furnished, and equipped with modern electrical appliances for housekeeping, and the latest type of plumbing. The heating system is connected with the central plant of the institution. The rental for these apartments is nominal. An early application is suggested to prospective occupants, who can secure full information with a plan of the suites from the President of the Seminary.

The architecture of the entire group is the English Collegiate Gothic of the type which prevails in the college buildings at Cambridge, England. The material is tapestry brick, trimmed with gray terra cotta of the Indiana limestone shade.

Marvin Social Hall

Memorial Hall contains a large social room which occupies an entire floor in one wing. This handsome room was erected and furnished by the late Mr. Sylvester S. Marvin, of the Board of Trustees, and his two sons, Walter R. and Earl R. Marvin, as a memorial to Mrs. Matilda Rumsey Marvin. The Social Hall has recently been redecorated and refurnished in a most attractive fashion. It is the center of the social life of the student body, and musicals and socials are held from time to time.

REFERENCE LIBRARY—SWIFT HALL

Dining Hall

A commodious and handsomely equipped dining hall was included in the new Memorial Hall. It is located in the top story of the left wing, with the kitchen adjoining in the rear wing. It is the aim of the Trustees of the Seminary to furnish good wholesome food at cost; but incidentally the assembling of the student body three times a day has strengthened, to a marked degree, the social and spiritual life of the institution.

Library

The library is planned to be of service to the religious interests of the entire community; not only to the immediate needs of the Faculty and students but also the varied needs of ministers and educators throughout the tri-state area. For this service its shelves contain the full sweep of religious literature and all its tributaries of philosophy, psychology, sociology, history, education and the arts. In addition to a complete coverage of the major secondary source materials, the library contains primary texts in the original languages of certain important fields, e.g., the Mediaeval Church, the Reformation, Hymnology, the Presbyterian Church in Western Pennsylvania. From the complete series of many religious periodicals published in both Europe and America and the extensive collection of exegetical and devotional commentaries on the Scriptures there can be assembled the main interpretations of Biblical texts from the Patristic Age to the present day. The faculty of the Old Testament department has followed with keen interest the advances in Palestinian archeology and has kept the library abreast of every development. The history of critical scholarship in the New Testament within the past century is fully represented. In theology the library is well equipped with the basic texts of the important historic systems as well as with the first fruits of modern tendencies. Foreign missions, for which our Seminary has prepared not a few great leaders, occupies a large space in the stacks with abundant material on biography, travel, geography and comparative religion.

Not only is the library continually adding new volumes to the major divisions mentioned above, but is beginning and developing new areas of religious literature. With a view to the wide variety of faiths and forms of worship here within the Pittsburgh district, there is being built a collection of ancient and modern liturgies with commentaries and monographs on the entire field of public worship. Within the past few years a library of recorded ecclesiastical music has been started and is ever-growing. There are continuous accessions in the fields of religious drama and visual education.

Whatever vacancies there may be on the shelves can be temporarily filled for the student by means of the Inter-Library Loan which brings to us the resources of the major American libraries. Our library will, likewise, furnish bibliographies, books and information by mail to any non-resident.

The number of volumes catalogued is roughly fifty thousand exclusive of the great Warrington collection of Hymnology to which is now added a part of the late Charles N. Boyd's library of church music. An allotment of books on the New Testament has recently come from the private library of the late Professor Armstrong of the Princeton Theological Seminary and is in the process of being catalogued.

The library is housed in Swift Hall, and consists of a spacious reading room in English Collegiate style, the librarians' offices, a study reserved for use of the faculty and seminar groups, and the stack room which has a capacity of one hundred sixty-five thousand volumes. In the main reading room desks with individual lamps and book racks can be reserved for periods of continued study and research. Here, too, are the reference books, the current periodicals of which there are over one hundred twenty-five, and such texts as appear in the bibliographies of the various courses in the Seminary.

The library operates as closely as possible with the teaching and work of the faculty. Individual instruction and help in methods of research is offered to every student. An intimate knowledge and an efficient use of the contents of the library is viewed as an essential part of theological training.

The James L. Shields Book Purchasing Memorial Fund, with an endowment of $1,000, was founded by the late Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, in memory of her father, the late James L. Shields, of Blairsville, Pennsylvania.

Department of Field Service

The Seminary seeks to give its students not only the best instruction in the various fields of theology but also practical training in actual church situations. This work is done under the Department of Field Service of which Rev. Jarvis M. Cotton is Director. The city of Pittsburgh, and southwestern Pennsylvania, with its many Presbyterian churches, extensive missionary work among minority groups, Young Men's Christian Associations, well directed settlement houses, hospitals and penal institutions offer many opportunities for acquainting the student with the varied needs of people and the Christian approaches to them. All of these agencies call upon the Seminary for student assistance. Such work is available for them under the supervision of the Field Director who acts as personal counselor. More of our students are engaged in churches as supply preachers than in any other type of youth groups in larger churches. Reports are received from the field so that helpful and sympathetic counsel is given, where needed. Courses in the Department of Practical Theology provide preceptorials where special problems are discussed under competent advisors.

Religious Exercises

As the Seminary does not maintain public services on the Lord's Day, each student is expected to connect himself with one of the congregations in Pittsburgh, and thus to be under pastoral care and to perform his duties as a church member.

Abundant opportunities for Christian work are afforded by the various churches, missions, and benevolent societies of this large community. This kind of labor has been found no less useful for practical training than the work of supplying pulpits. Daily prayers at 10:30 A. M., which all the students are required to attend, are conducted by the Faculty. A meeting for prayer and conference, conducted by the professors, is held every Wednesday morning, at which addresses are made by the professors and invited speakers.

Senior Preaching Service

(See Study Courses 74, 47, 55.)

Public worship is observed every Wednesday evening in the Seminary Chapel, from October to April, under the direction of the professor of homiletics. This service is intended to be in all respects what a regular church service should be. It is attended by the members of the Faculty, the entire student body, and friends of the Seminary generally. It is conducted by members of the Senior Class in rotation. The Cecilia Choir is in attendance to lead the singing and furnish a suitable anthem. The service is designed to minister to the spiritual life of the Seminary and also to furnish a model of Presbyterian form and order. The exercises are all reviewed by the professor in charge at his next subsequent meeting with the Senior Class. Members of the Faculty are also expected to offer to the officiating student any suggestions they may deem desirable.

Student Association

This society has been recently organized under the direction of the Faculty, which is represented on each one of the committees. Students are ipso facto and members of the Faculty ex officio members of the Student Association. Meetings are held weekly, the exercises being alternately missionary and devotional.

According to a rule of the faculty only those students who are in good standing in all their courses of study may be nominated or elected to responsible offices in connection with the Student Association or to any delegation representing the student body of the Seminary.

Christian Work

The City of Pittsburgh affords unusual opportunities for an adequate study of the manifold forms of modern Christian activity. Students are encouraged to engage in some form of Christian work other than preaching, as it is both a stimulus to devotional life and forms an important element in a training for the pastorate. Regular religious work of various types has been carried on under the direction of student committees in connection with missions and philanthropic institutions of the city. Several students have had charge of mission churches in various parts of the city while others have been assistants in Sunday School work or have conducted Teacher Training Classes. Those who are interested in settlement work have unusual opportunities of familiarizing themselves with this form of social activity at the Wood's Run Industrial Home, the Kingsley House, the Heinz Settlement, and the Manchester Educational Center.

Bureau of Preaching Supply

A bureau of preaching supply has been organized by the Faculty for the purpose of apportioning supply work, as request comes in from vacant churches. The allotment of places is in alphabetical order. The members of the senior class and regularly enrolled graduate students have the preference over the middle class, and the middle class in turn over the junior.

Physical Training

General Educational Advantages

Pittsburgh is an ideal seat for a theological seminary, because it is one of the leading manufacturing and commercial cities of the country. It is obvious that a minister ought to come in contact with the problems of community life in one of the great throbbing centers of activity, where every social problem is intensified, in order to be able to enter into sympathetic and intelligent relations with the people of the churches and communities which he may be called on to serve. To put it in a word, a term of residence in Pittsburgh brings a man into vital contact with life in its many complex modern forms.

In the Pittsburgh area, which includes the Presbytery of Pittsburgh and contiguous Presbyteries, Beaver, Butler, Kittanning, Blairsville, Redstone, and Washington, we find some of the largest, most aggressive, and best equipped churches of our communion. The Presbytery of Pittsburgh alone has 138 churches and 201 ministers on its roll; twenty of these churches have more than one thousand members. In 1944, it reported 73,055 church members, and 36,799 Sunday School members. In addition to the organized churches, The Presbytery of Pittsburgh, directly and through several of its strong churches, carries on mission work in approximately forty different stations. Every type of church activity and organization is represented in the churches of this Presbytery. A student has abundant opportunity to familiarize himself with the organization and methods of efficient church and missionary work, not merely through the study of a text book, but by personal observation and participation.

Not only do many of these churches carry on an extensive and aggressive program of social service, but in addition the student has access to the many social settlements and other centers of welfare work with which Pittsburgh is well supplied. Prospective students who are especially interested in this type of modern philanthropic activity will, on request, be furnished with detailed information on Pittsburgh as a social center.

In addition to being a manufacturing center, with the largest tonnage of any city in the world, Pittsburgh is the seat of a University with an enrollment of 8,952 (1943-44), and famous for its unusual building, the Cathedral of Learning. Students of the Seminary have the privilege of attending the University and of receiving the Master's degree under certain conditions (cat. p. 54). Besides the University, there are the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the Pennsylvania College for Women, and the Pittsburgh Musical Institute. Mr. Howard L. Ralston, our instructor in Church Music, is on the faculty of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and is also the organist and musical director of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church. Some idea of Pittsburgh as a musical center may be gained from the fact that each week during the season from two to four or five concerts are announced for this city by the foremost artists and musical organizations of the country. To these should be added the free organ recitals which are given every Saturday by Marshall Bidwell, one of the world's best organists, in Carnegie Music Hall. Pittsburgh also occupies a prominent place as an art center, with the notable permanent and frequent transient exhibits in the Carnegie Institute.

A VIEW OF THE PARK FROM THE QUADRANGLE

In such a survey the library facilities of the city are not to be passed by. In addition to the Seminary library, which is exclusively theological in its scope and rich in its collections, there are the two Carnegie Libraries. The North Side Library, founded by Mr. Carnegie, in 1886, which is situated within a few blocks of the Seminary buildings, affords the student ready access to general literature of every type. The main Library, in connection with the Carnegie Institute, with its larger collections, is also available to the students. The Museum of the Carnegie Institute is of large educational value, and students will be well repaid by a careful survey of its collections.

Admission

The Seminary, while under Presbyterian control, is open to students of all denominations. As its special aim is the training of men for the Christian ministry, applicants for admission are requested to present satisfactory testimonials that they possess good natural talents, that they are prudent and discreet in their deportment, and that they are in full communion with some evangelical church; also that they have the requisite literary preparation for the studies of the theological course.

If an applicant for admission is not a college graduate, he is required to submit evidence that he has had an education which is a fair equivalent of a college course.

Pre-Seminary Curriculum

For the guidance of prospective students the following suggestions are offered in regard to their pre-seminary studies: As a foundation for his theological training a student should have a broad and comprehensive college education, commonly known as a "liberal arts" course.

The American Association of Theological Schools has suggested a basal minimum in a pre-seminary curriculum as follows:

Fields	Semesters	Sem. hours
English	4	8-12
Composition and literature
Philosophy	2	4- 6

At least two of the following:

Introduction to philosophy
History of philosophy
Ethics
Logic
History	2	4- 6
Psychology	1	2- 3
A foreign language	4	12-16

At least two of the following, one of which should be Greek:

Latin
Greek
Hebrew
French
German
Natural sciences	2	4- 6
Physical or biological
Social sciences	2	4- 6

At least two of the following:

Economics
Sociology
Government or political science
Social psychology
Education

In recommending this basal minimum the Association commented on two characteristics of the pre-seminary curriculum which it had proposed, as follows:

“First, it is a ‘liberal arts’ curriculum, containing none of the elements commonly known as ‘pre-professional’. In our judgment the appropriate foundations for a minister’s later professional studies lie in a broad and comprehensive college education, while the normal place for a minister's professional studies is the theological school. For this reason it contains no reference to courses dealing specifically with religion and the Church.

Students from Other Theological Seminaries

Students coming from other theological seminaries are required to present certificates of good standing and regular dismissal before they can be received.

Graduate Students

Those who desire to be enrolled for post-graduate study will be admitted to matriculation on presenting their diplomas or certificates of graduation from other theological seminaries.

Resident licentiates and ministers have the privilege of attending lectures in all departments.

Seminary Year

The Seminary year, consisting of one term, is divided into two semesters of eighteen weeks each, the second semester commencing eighteen weeks after the opening of the Seminary. The Seminary Year begins on the second or third Tuesday of September and continues for thirty-six weeks in every year, Commencement Day being the Thursday before the meeting of the General Assembly. The number of vacations and their dates are determined by the Board. It is expected that every student will be present at the opening of the session, when the rooms will be allotted. The more important days are indicated in the calendar (p. 3).

Examinations

Examinations, written or oral, are required in every department, and are held twice a year, or at the end of each semester. Students who do not pass satisfactory examinations may be re-examined at the beginning of the next term, but, failing then to give satisfaction, will be regarded as partial or will be required to enter the class corresponding to the one to which they belonged the previous year.

In addition to semester examinations, candidates for the S.T.B. degree are required to take a comprehensive examination six weeks preceding graduation. This comprehensive examination will be set in the following subjects: Bible, including interpretation of important passages; Church History; Theology; and Church Government.

The Bachelor's Degree

Upon graduation students receive the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology. The degree will be granted to those who are graduates of an accredited college or who sustain satisfactory examinations in college subjects, and who have completed a course of three years study, pursued in this or partly in this and partly in some other regular theological Seminary.

The candidates for the degree must pass satisfactory examinations in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, present an acceptable thesis, and satisfy all requirements for attendance.

Men who have taken the full course at another Seminary, including the departments of Hebrew and Greek Exegesis, Dogmatic Theology, Church History, and Pastoral Theology, and have received a diploma, will be entitled to the Bachelor's degree from this Seminary on condition: (1) that they take the equivalent of a full year's work in a single year or two years; (2) that they be subject to the usual rules governing our classroom work, such as regular attendance and recitations; (3) that they pass the examinations with the classes of which they are members; (4) it is a further condition that such students attend exercises in at least three departments, one of which shall be either Greek or Hebrew Exegesis.

Courses of Study

The growth of the elective system in colleges has resulted in a wide variation in the equipment of the students entering the Seminary, and the broadening of the scope of practical Christian activity has necessitated a specialized training for ministerial candidates. In recognition of these conditions, the curriculum has been developed to prepare men for five different types of ministerial work: (1) the regular pastorate; (2) the foreign field; (3) home missionary service; (4) religious education; (5) teaching the Bible in colleges.

The elective system has been introduced with such restrictions as seemed necessary in view of the general aim of the Seminary.

The elective courses are confined largely to the senior year, except that students who have already completed certain courses of the Seminary curriculum will not be required to take them again, but may select from the list of electives such courses as will fill in the entire quota of hours.

Students who come to the Seminary with inadequate preparation will be required to take certain elementary courses, e. g., Greek, Hebrew, Philosophy. In some cases this may entail a four years' course in the Seminary, but students are urged to do all preliminary work in colleges.

The faculty reserves the right to require supplementary study in any subject in which a student is deficient; and those who are unable to write clear and correct English must make up this deficiency before the close of the second year.

Seventeen hours of recitation and lecture work are required of Juniors, for the Middlers the requirement

is sixteen hours, for the Seniors fourteen hours, and for Graduate Students twelve hours throughout the year. Anyone desiring to take more than the required number of hours must make special application to the Faculty, and no student who falls below the grade "A" in his regular work will be allowed to take additional courses. A student absent from twenty-five per cent of the classroom exercises in any course will not receive credit for that course.

In the senior year the only required courses are those in Practical Theology. N. T. Theology, O. T. Prophecy, and Christian Ethics and Social Teachings. The election of studies must be on the group system, one subject being regarded as major and another as minor; for example, a student electing N. T. as a major must take four hours in this department and in addition must take one course in a closely related subject, such as O. T. Theology or Exegesis. He must also write a thesis of not less than 4,000 words on some topic in the department from which he has selected his major.

Great emphasis is laid upon the study of the English Bible through the entire Seminary course. In fact, more time is devoted to the study of the Bible in English than to any other single subject. For graduation, 94 semester hours of classroom work are required of each student. Of this total, 18 semester hours are taken up with the exact scientific study of the Bible in the English version, or in other words, almost one-fifth of the student's time is concentrated on the Bible in English. In addition to this minimum requirement, elective courses occupying 30 semester hours, are offered to students. For details in regard to courses in the English Bible, see under Old Testament Literature, p. 37f. and New Testament Literature, p. 39f. See especially the following courses:

Practical Theology

Including Homiletics, Pastoral Theology, Sermon Delivery, Church Music, The Sacraments, and Church Government

A. Homiletics

DR. AMERMAN, DR. KIRKPATRICK

The course in Homiletics is designed to be strictly progressive, keeping step with the work in other departments. Students are advanced from the simpler exercises to the more abstruse as they are prepared for this by their advance in exegesis and theology.

Certain books of special reference are used in the department of Practical Theology, to which students are referred. Valuable new books are constantly being added to the library, and special additions, in large numbers, have been made on subjects related to this department, particularly Pedagogics, Bible Class Work, Sociology, and Personal Evangelism.

43 and 46. An Introduction to Homiletics. An analytical study of contemporary preaching based upon an anthology of present day sermons. Two hours weekly, throughout the year. (One hour a week will be devoted to lecture and one hour to practise preaching.) Juniors. Required.

74. Past Preachers and Present Preaching. An historical survey of great homiletical themes and techniques through the course of church history. Each student will prepare a thesis on the work of a great preacher of the past. One hour weekly, first semester; two hours weekly, second semester. Creative Delivery of Sermons. This is a practical course on the delivery of sermons. It is concerned with the vital task of effectively conveying the already-created sermon. It deals with such elements as posture, breathing, tone production, and resonance, but primarily with the creative spirit which must, at the moment of preaching, utilize these mechanical details. The purpose of the course is to study the minister's aim in sermon delivery and to develop the student's ability to achieve this aim. To this end the classroom lectures are supplemented by an equal number of semi-private classes, at each of which the student is coached in the practical application of the principles of effective speech.

Reports to Presbyteries

Presbyteries having students under their care receive annual reports from the Faculty concerning the attainments of the students in scholarship and their attendance upon the exercises of the Seminary.

Graduate Studies

The Seminary confers the degree of Master of Sacred Theology on students who complete a fourth year of study.

This degree will be granted under the following conditions:

(1) The applicant must have a Bachelor's degree from a college of recognized standing.

(2) He must be a graduate of this or of some other theological seminary. In case he has graduated from another seminary, which does not require Greek and Hebrew for its diploma, the candidate must take in addition to the above requirements the following courses: Hebrew, 1 and 3; New Testament 13, or its equivalent; and 125, 126, 127.

(3) He must be in residence at this Seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to twelve hours per week of regular curriculum work.

(4) He shall be required to devote two-thirds of said time to one subject, which will be called a major, and the remainder to another subject termed a minor.

In the department of the major he shall be required to write a thesis on an approved theme. The subject of this thesis must be presented to the professor at the head of this department for approval, not later than November 15th of the academic year at the close of which the degree is to be conferred. By April 1st a typewritten copy of this thesis is to be in the hands of the professor for examination. At the close of the year he shall pass a rigid examination in both major and minor subjects.

Relations with University of Pittsburgh

The post-graduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to the students of the Seminary. The requirements for the A. M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh are 24 course credits and six thesis credits; for the Ph. D. degree, 72 course credits and six thesis credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the Graduate Faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the Seminary who desire to secure credits at the University.

Graduates from the three-year theological course of Western Theological Seminary, who desire to take the A.M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of Religion and Religious Education, may transfer as many as 14 semester credits from the Seminary as advanced standing toward this degree. The remaining 10 course credits and six thesis credits required for the A.M. degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. A part of the 10 course credits may be taken in other fields of the University than Religion and Religious Education.

Graduates of Western Theological Seminary will be allowed a maximum of 30 graduate credits as advanced standing toward the Ph.D. degree in Religion and Religious Education. An additional amount of six graduate credits may be granted to students taking courses at the Seminary beyond the regular three-year theological course, in which cases the courses must be agreed upon by the Graduate School of the University of Pittsburgh.

The University of Pittsburgh will accept graduate credits from Western Theological Seminary in the fields of Biblical literature, church history, theology, history and philosophy of religion, and religious education.

The amount of advanced graduate standing granted to Seminary students, who choose to do their major work at the University in fields other than Religion and Religious Education will be determined by heads of these departments. The advanced standing for both the A.M. and Ph.D. degrees will vary somewhat with departments and students.

A regular summer session or semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the Seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

The procedure outlined in the foregoing paragraphs became effective February, 1933.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Permission in writing must be secured by the student from the Registrar of the Seminary in order to take advantage of this privilege.

Fellowships and Prizes

1. Fellowships. For the year 1944-5 the Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying $800, will be available. This fellowship will be assigned upon graduation to the member of the Senior Class who has the highest standing in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, but to no one falling below an average of 85 per cent. The Faculty reserve the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of post-graduate study within three years of the award, under the direction of the Faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pa., by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Rev. Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class, and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. It is awarded to a member of the Senior Class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made.

3. A prize in Hebrew is offered to that member of the Junior Class who maintains the highest standing in this subject throughout the junior year. The prize consists of a copy of the Oxford Hebrew-English Lexicon, a copy of the latest English translation of Gesenius-Kautzsch's Hebrew Grammar or a copy of Davidson's Hebrew Syntax, and a copy of the Hebrew Bible edited by Kittel.

4. All students reaching the grade "A" in all departments during the junior year will be entitled to a prize of $50, which will be paid in four installments in the middle year, provided that the recipient continues to maintain the grade "A" in all departments during the middle year. Prizes of the same amount and under similar conditions will be available for seniors, but no student whose attendance is unsatisfactory will be eligible for these prizes.

5. In May 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pa., established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew

Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of $25 each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1st.

6. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Greek exegesis, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for the 1944-5 assignment is I Cor. 15:20-34; and for 1945-6 it is the Book of Philippians.

7. In September 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Hebrew, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for the 1944-5 assignment is the Book of Jonah; and for 1945-6 it is the Book of Ruth.

8. In July 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of $1,000, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the Junior Class of the Seminary. The assignment upon which the examination will be given is Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

9. An entrance prize of $300 is offered by the Seminary to college graduates presenting themselves for admission to the Junior Class. The scholarships will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination subject to the following conditions:

(I) Candidates must, not later than September 1st, indicate their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must be accompanied by certificates of college standing and mention of subjects elected for examination.

(II) Candidates must be graduates of high standing in the classical course of some accepted college or university.

(III) The examinations will be conducted on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of the opening week of the first semester.

(IV) The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list: (1) CLASSICAL GREEK—Greek Grammar, translation of Greek prose, Greek composition; (2) LATIN—Latin Grammar, translation of Latin prose, Latin composition; (3) HEBREW—Hebrew Grammar, translation of Hebrew prose, Hebrew composition; (4) GERMAN—translation of German into English and English into German; (5) FRENCH—translation of French into English and English into French; (6) PHILOSOPHY—(a) History of Philosophy, (b) Psychology, (c) Ethics, (d) Metaphysics; (7) HISTORY—(a) Ancient Oriental History, (b) Græco-Roman History to A. D. 476, (c) Mediæval History to the Reformation, (d) Modern History.

(V) Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination, among which subjects Greek shall always be included. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject. No more than one subject in Philosophy and no more than one subject in History may be chosen by any one candidate.

(VI) The awards of the scholarships will be made to the two competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below ninety per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made, and the second on April 1st. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work or prolonged absence will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment. The winner of this prize is not eligible for scholarship during the Junior year.

The intention to compete for the prize scholarships should be made known, in writing, to the President.

10. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of $25.00 to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be given to the student in the Senior Class who by vote of the student body has shown the greatest amount of Christian leadership during his Seminary life.

Donations and Bequests

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania". The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

I hereby give and bequeath to the Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:—

Note:—If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added:—The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate.

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world an additional endowment of $500,000 is imperatively necessary.

The Memorial idea may be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

Historical Sketch

The Western Theological Seminary was established in the year 1825. The reason for the founding of the Seminary is expressed in the resolution on the subject, adopted by the General Assembly of 1825, to wit: "It is expedient forthwith to establish a Theological Seminary in the West, to be styled the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States." The Assembly took active measures for carrying into execution the resolution which had been adopted, by electing a Board of Directors consisting of twenty-one ministers and nine ruling elders, and by instructing this Board to report to the next General Assembly a suitable location and such "alterations" in the plan of the Princeton Seminary as, in their judgment, might be necessary to accommodate it to the local situation of the "Western Seminary".

The General Assembly of 1827, by a bare majority of two votes, selected Allegheny as the location for the new institution. The first session was formally commenced on November 16, 1827, with a class of four young men who were instructed by the Rev. E. P. Swift and the Rev. Joseph Stockton.

During the one hundred nineteen years of her existence, 3,445 students have attended the classes of the Western Theological Seminary; and of this number, more than twenty-four hundred have been ordained as ministers of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. Her missionary alumni, two hundred and thirteen in number, many of them having distinguished careers, have preached the Gospel in every land where missionary enterprise is conducted.

LOCATION. The choice of location, as the history of the institution has shown, was wisely made. The Seminary in course of time ceased, indeed, to be western in the strict sense of the term; but it became central to one of the most important and influential sections of the Presbyterian Church, equally accessible to the West and East.

The buildings are situated near the summit of Ridge Avenue, Pittsburgh (North Side), mainly on West Park, one of the most attractive sections of the city. Within a few blocks of the Seminary property is the North Side Carnegie Library, the North Side Y.M.C.A., and the beautiful new Buhl Planetarium. Accessible also is a large shopping district including a fine department store. It is twenty minutes walk from the center of business in Pittsburgh, with a ready access to all portions of the city. In the midst of this community of more than 1,000,000 people and center of strong Presbyterian churches and church life, the students have unlimited opportunities of gaining familiarity with every type of modern church organization and work. The practical experience and insight which they are able to acquire, without detriment to their studies, are a most valuable element in their preparation for the ministry.

BUILDINGS. The first Seminary building was erected in the year 1831; it was situated on what is now known as Monument Hill. After its complete destruction by fire in 1854, a second building "Seminary Hall" was erected at the foot of Monument Hill, on Ridge Avenue facing West Park, and formally dedicated January 10, 1856. In turn this structure was partially destroyed by fire in 1887 and was immediately revamped. Seminary Hall was torn down November 1, 1914, to make room for the new buildings, Herron and Swift Halls.

The first dormitory was made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Hetty E. Beatty. It was erected in the year 1859 and was known as "Beatty Hall." This structure had become wholly inadequate to the needs of the institution by 1877, and the Rev. C. C. Beatty furnished the funds for a new dormitory which was known as "Memorial Hall", as Dr. Beatty wished to make the edifice commemorate the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church.

A library building, which was erected in 1872, has been replaced by a modern library equipment in the group of new buildings.

Present Seminary Buildings

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue, adjacent to West Park, in one of the most attractive sections of the North Side, Pittsburgh. They are easily reached by trolley and bus from the railroad stations, and other sections of the city.

HERRON HALL, named in memory of Rev. Francis Herron, D.D., one of the founders of the institution. The main architectural feature of this building is a tower, through which entrance is had to the quadrangle. While this tower enhances the beauty of the building, all the space in it has been carefully used for offices and classrooms.

SWIFT HALL, named in memory of Rev. Elisha P. Swift, D.D., another founder of the Seminary and for a period a professor, forms the rear of the quadrangle. It contains the chapel which seats two hundred, and the Library, which has a capacity for 165,000 volumes. The reference room and the administrative offices of the library, with seminar rooms, are found on the second floor. The reference room, 88 by 38 feet, is equipped and decorated in the mediæval Gothic style, with capacity for 10,000 volumes.

Both Herron and Swift Halls were dedicated on Commencement Day, May 4, 1916.

MEMORIAL HALL, the students' residence, was erected in 1911-12 on the site of an older building, with the name of the former structure retained as it commemorated the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church in 1870. It is laid out in the shape of a Y, which is an unusual design for a college building, but brings direct sunlight to every room. Another noticeable feature of this dormitory is that there is not a single inside room of any kind. The center is surmounted with a beautiful tower in the Oxford manner. It contains suites of rooms for seventy students, together with a handsomely furnished social hall, a well equipped gymnasium, and a commodious dining room. A full description of these public rooms will be found on other pages of this catalogue.

LOWRIE HALL, which was erected in 1933, is a memorial to Rev. John Cameron Lowrie, D.D., of the Class of 1832, the first graduate of the Seminary to go to the Foreign Mission field. Dr. Lowrie was the founder of Presbyterian Missions in North India, and served as a Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., from 1838 to 1891.

The building contains seven apartments varying in size from suites of two rooms with kitchenette and bath to an apartment with five rooms. All the suites are furnished, and equipped with modern electrical appliances for housekeeping, and the latest type of plumbing. The heating system is connected with the central plant of the institution. The rental for these apartments is nominal. An early application is suggested to prospective occupants, who can secure full information with a plan of the suites from the President of the Seminary.

The architecture of the entire group is the English Collegiate Gothic of the type which prevails in the college buildings at Cambridge, England. The material is tapestry brick, trimmed with gray terra cotta of the Indiana limestone shade.

Marvin Social Hall

Memorial Hall contains a large social room which occupies an entire floor in one wing. This handsome room was erected and furnished by the late Mr. Sylvester S. Marvin, of the Board of Trustees, and his two sons, Walter R. and Earl R. Marvin, as a memorial to Mrs. Matilda Rumsey Marvin. The Social Hall has recently been redecorated and refurnished in a most attractive fashion. It is the center of the social life of the student body, and musicals and socials are held from time to time.

Dining Hall

A commodious and handsomely equipped dining hall was included in the new Memorial Hall. It is located in the top story of the left wing, with the kitchen adjoining in the rear wing. It is the aim of the Trustees of the Seminary to furnish good wholesome food at cost; but incidentally the assembling of the student body three times a day has strengthened, to a marked degree, the social and spiritual life of the institution.

Library

The library is planned to be of service to the religious interests of the entire community; not only to the immediate needs of the Faculty and students but also the varied needs of ministers and educators throughout the tri-state area. For this service its shelves contain the full sweep of religious literature and all its tributaries of philosophy, psychology, sociology, history, education and the arts. In addition to a complete coverage of the major secondary source materials, the library contains primary texts in the original languages of certain important fields. e.g., the Mediaeval Church, the Reformation, Hymnology, the Presbyterian Church in Western Pennsylvania. From the complete series of many religious periodicals published in both Europe and America and the extensive collection of exegetical and devotional commentaries on the Scriptures there can be assembled the main interpretations of Biblical texts from the Patristic Age to the present day. The faculty of the Old Testament department has followed with keen interest the advances in Palestinian archeology and has kept the library abreast of every development. The history of critical scholarship in the New Testament within the past century is fully represented. In theology the library is well equipped with the basic texts of the important historic systems as well as with the first fruits of modern tendencies. Foreign missions, for which our Seminary has prepared not a few great leaders, occupies a large space in the stacks with abundant material on biography, travel, geography and comparative religion.

Not only is the library continually adding new volumes to the major divisions mentioned above, but is beginning and developing new areas of religious literature. With a view to the wide variety of faiths and forms of worship here within the Pittsburgh district, there is being built a collection of ancient and modern liturgies with commentaries and monographs on the entire field of public worship. Within the past few years a library of recorded ecclesiastical music has been started and is ever-growing. There are continuous accessions in the fields of religious drama and visual education.

Whatever vacancies there may be on the shelves can be temporarily filled for the student by means of the Inter-Library Loan which brings to us the resources of the major American libraries. Our library will, likewise, furnish bibliographies, books and information by mail to any non-resident.

The number of volumes catalogued is roughly fifty thousand exclusive of the great Warrington collection of Hymnology to which is now added a part of the late Charles N. Boyd's library of church music. An allotment of books on the New Testament has recently come from the private library of the late Professor Armstrong of the Princeton Theological Seminary and is in the process of being catalogued.

The library is housed in Swift Hall, and consists of a spacious reading room in English Collegiate style, the librarians' offices, a study reserved for use of the faculty and seminar groups, and the stack room which has a capacity of one hundred sixty-five thousand volumes. In the main reading room desks with individual lamps and book racks can be reserved for periods of continued study and research. Here, too, are the reference books, the current periodicals of which there are over one hundred twenty-five, and such texts as appear in the bibliographies of the various courses in the Seminary.

The library operates as closely as possible with the teaching and work of the faculty. Individual instruction and help in methods of research is offered to every student. An intimate knowledge and an efficient use of the contents of the library is viewed as an essential part of theological training.

The James L. Shields Book Purchasing Memorial Fund, with an endowment of $1,000, was founded by the late Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, in memory of her father, the late James L. Shields, of Blairsville, Pennsylvania.

Department of Field Service

It is the aim of the Seminary to give students the best instruction in the various fields of theology and practical and supervised training in actual parish situations. This work is under the Department of Field Service of which Dr. Jarvis M. Cotton is Director. The city of Pittsburgh and southwestern Pennsylvania offer a rich field for field work experience to the student. Perhaps, no other metropolitan area in the country is as predominantly Protestant or has so many Presbyterian churches.

An extensive missionary program is conducted among neglected minority groups by the Presbyteries of western Pennsylvania. There are many social settlement houses, founded by outstanding churchmen whose directors recognize the primacy of the Christian emphasis in their work and programs. Clinical training is also available to the student in general and psychiatric hospitals and in penal institutions under the supervision of regular chaplains. Many of these allied agencies of the Church call upon the Seminary for student assistance and those qualified accept such calls, thus becoming acquainted with the varied needs of men and the Christian approaches to them.

The greater part of a student's field work is given directly to the Church. Many of our students supply pulpits either regularly or occasionally. An attempt is made to match the difficulty of the assignment to the proficiency of the student and to integrate as closely as possible his academic and field work. The purpose of field work is that it shall have true educational value and not be regarded as "outside" activity. All such arrangements with students are necessarily subject to the particular demands and openings of the hour as also their varying abilities and capacities.

In whatever work the student enters, reports are received of his work so that intelligent and sympathetic counsel may be given. Courses in the Department of Practical Theology provide preceptorials where special problems are discussed under the several instructors.

Religious Exercises

As the Seminary does not maintain public services on the Lord's Day, each student is expected to connect himself with one of the congregations in Pittsburgh, and thus to be under pastoral care and to perform his duties as a church member.

Abundant opportunities for Christian work are afforded by the various churches, missions, and benevolent societies of this large community. This kind of labor has been found no less useful for practical training than the work of supplying pulpits. Daily prayers at 10:30 A. M., which all the students are required to attend, are conducted by the Faculty. A meeting for prayer and conference, conducted by the professors, is held every Wednesday morning, at which addresses are made by the professors and invited speakers.

Senior Preaching Service

(See Study Courses 74, 47, 55.)

Public worship is observed every Wednesday in the Seminary Chapel, from October to April, under the direction of the professor of homiletics. This service is intended to be in all respects what a regular church service should be. It is attended by the members of the Faculty, the entire student body, and friends of the Seminary generally. It is conducted by members of the Senior Class in rotation. The service is designed to minister to the spiritual life of the Seminary and also to furnish a model of Presbyterian form and order. The exercises are all reviewed by the professor in charge at his next subsequent meeting with the Senior Class. Members of the Faculty are also expected to offer to the officiating student any suggestions they may deem desirable.

Student Presbytery

The students of the Seminary are organized into a Student Presbytery modeled after the Presbytery of our Church. It is complete with the offices of moderator, vice-moderator, stated clerk and treasurer. Each of the three classes, Junior, Middler and Senior, is similarly organized with a moderator, vice-moderator and stated clerk. Meetings of the Student Presbytery are called for the first Wednesday of each month. The professors are members ex officio. Committees are appointed to direct the devotional, social, athletic and interseminary activities of the student body.

Student Devotional Life

The Devotional Committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the group prayer life of the students. The duties of this committee lie outside the regular morning chapel and the Wednesday Vesper services which are under the supervision of the Faculty. The Student Devotional Committee conducts a brief period of song, Scripture reading and prayer in the refectory following the evening meal. Also on Thursday evenings at seven o'clock the students meet in the Kelso Memorial Chapel of the dormitory for devotions. One day of the school year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer. Classes are omitted, and beginning with the early morning the entire day is devoted to prayer and meditation.

Christian Work

The City of Pittsburgh affords unusual opportunities for an adequate study of the manifold forms of modern Christian activity. Students are encouraged to engage in some form of Christian work other than preaching, as it is both a stimulus to devotional life and forms an important element in a training for the pastorate. Regular religious work of various types has been carried on under the direction of student committees in connection with missions and philanthropic institutions of the city. Several students have had charge of mission churches in various parts of the city while others have been assistants in Sunday School work or have conducted Teacher Training Classes. Those who are interested in settlement work have unusual opportunities of familiarizing themselves with this form of social activity at the Wood's Run Industrial Home, the Kingsley House, the Heinz Settlement, and the Manchester Educational Center.

Physical Training

Memorial Hall contains a gymnasium which is equipped with the most modern apparatus. Its floor and walls are properly spaced and marked for basket ball and handball courts. It is open to students five hours daily. The students also have access to the public tennis courts in West Park.

All students who reside in the dormitory are required to take their meals in the Seminary dining hall.

In the case of partial and post-graduate students, the tuition fee is $10.00 per semester for one course and $5.00 for each additional course, the maximum charge for a semester being $29.00.

DIPLOMA FEES: The diploma fee for each degree (S.T.B. and S.T.M.) is $5.00, and is to be paid at the time the thesis is presented.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before graduation or transfer.

Scholarship Aid

1. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students needing financial assistance may receive aid.

Students intending to enroll and desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the President.

2. The distribution is made in four installments: October 1st, November 15th, at registration second semester, and April 1st.

Loan Funds

The Rev. James H. Lyon, a member of the Class of 1864, has founded a loan fund by a gift of $200. Needy students may borrow small sums from this fund at a low rate of interest.

Recently a friend of the Seminary, by a gift of $2500, established a Students' Loan and Self-help Fund. The principal is to be kept intact and the income is available for small loans to students.

General Educational Advantages

Pittsburgh is an ideal seat for a theological seminary, because it is one of the leading manufacturing and commercial cities of the country. It is obvious that a minister ought to come in contact with the problems of community life in one of the great throbbing centers of activity, where every social problem is intensified, in order to be able to enter into sympathetic and intelligent relations with the people of the churches and communities which he may be called on to serve. To put it in a word, a term of residence in Pittsburgh brings a man into vital contact with life in its many complex modern forms.

In the Pittsburgh area, which includes the Presbytery of Pittsburgh and contiguous Presbyteries, Athens, Beaver, Butler, Kittanning, Blairsville, Redstone, and Washington, we find some of the largest, most aggressive, and best equipped churches of our communion. The Presbytery of Pittsburgh alone has 132 churches and 200 ministers on its roll; twenty of these churches have more than one thousand members. In 1945, it reported 74,233 church members, and 36,509 Sunday School members. In addition to the organized churches, The Presbytery of Pittsburgh, directly and through several of its strong churches, carries on mission work in approximately forty different stations. Every type of church activity and organization is represented in the churches of this Presbytery. A student has abundant opportunity to familiarize himself with the organization and methods of efficient church and missionary work, not merely through the study of a text book, but by personal observation and participation.

Not only do many of these churches carry on an extensive and aggressive program of social service, but in addition the student has access to the many social settlements and other centers of welfare work with which Pittsburgh is well supplied. Prospective students who are especially interested in this type of modern philanthropic activity will, on request, be furnished with detailed information on Pittsburgh as a social center.

In addition to being a manufacturing center, with the largest tonnage of any city in the world, Pittsburgh is the seat of a University with a net resident enrollment of 10,283 (1944-45), and famous for its unusual building, the Cathedral of Learning. Students of the Seminary have the privilege of attending the University and of receiving the Master's degree under certain conditions (cat. p. 55). Besides the University, there are the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the Pennsylvania College for Women, and the Pittsburgh Musical Institute. Mr. Howard L. Ralston, our instructor in Church Music, is on the faculty of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and is also the organist and musical director of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church. Some idea of Pittsburgh as a musical center may be gained from the fact that each week during the season from two to four or five concerts are announced for this city by the foremost artists and musical organizations of the country. To these should be added the free organ recitals which are given every Saturday by Marshall Bidwell, one of the world's best organists, in Carnegie Music Hall. Pittsburgh also occupies a prominent place as an art center, with the notable permanent and frequent transient exhibits in the Carnegie Institute.

In such a survey the library facilities of the city are not to be passed by. In addition to the Seminary library, which is exclusively theological in its scope and rich in its collections, there are the two Carnegie Libraries. The North Side Library, founded by Mr. Carnegie, in 1886, which is situated within a few blocks of the Seminary buildings, affords the student ready access to general literature of every type. The main Library, in connection with the Carnegie Institute, with its larger collections, is also available to the students. The Museum of the Carnegie Institute is of large educational value, and students will be well repaid by a careful survey of its collections.

Admission

The Seminary, while under Presbyterian control, is open to students of all denominations. As its special aim is the training of men for the Christian ministry, applicants for admission are requested to present satisfactory testimonials that they possess good natural talents, that they are prudent and discreet in their deportment, and that they are in full communion with some evangelical church; also that they have the requisite literary preparation for the studies of the theological course.

If an applicant for admission is not a college graduate, he is required to submit evidence that he has had an education which is a fair equivalent of a college course.

Pre-Seminary Curriculum

For the guidance of prospective students the following suggestions are offered in regard to their pre-seminary studies: As a foundation for his theological training a student should have a broad and comprehensive college education, commonly known as a “liberal arts” course.

The American Association of Theological Schools has suggested a basal minimum in a pre-seminary curriculum as follows:

Fields	Semesters	Sem. hours
English	4	8-12
Composition and literature
Philosophy	2	4- 6
At least two of the following:
Introduction to philosophy
History of philosophy
Ethics
Logic
History	2	4- 6
Psychology	1	2- 3
A foreign language	4	12-16
At least two of the following, one of which should be Greek:
Latin
Greek
Hebrew
French
German
Natural sciences	2	4- 6
Physical or biological
Social sciences	2	4- 6
At least two of the following:
Economics
Sociology
Government or political science
Social psychology
Education

In recommending this basal minimum the Association commented on two characteristics of the pre-seminary curriculum which it had proposed, as follows:

“First, it is a ‘liberal arts’ curriculum, containing none of the elements commonly known as ‘pre-professional'. In our judgment the appropriate foundations for a minister's later professional studies lie in a broad and comprehensive college education, while the normal place for a minister's professional studies is the theological school. For this reason it contains no reference to courses dealing specifically with religion and the Church.

"Second, it is a statement in minimum terms. We make no attempt to list all the work which it would be profitable for a student to do. It is thus possible to include many other elements in one's college courses, while still working in what the Association regards as the first essentials."

Students from Other Theological Seminaries

Students coming from other theological seminaries are required to present certificates of good standing and regular dismissal before they can be received.

Graduate Students

Those who desire to be enrolled for post-graduate study will be admitted to matriculation on presenting their diplomas or certificates of graduation from other theological seminaries.

Resident licentiates and ministers have the privilege of attending lectures in all departments.

Seminary Year

The Seminary year, consisting of one term, is divided into two semesters of eighteen weeks each, the second semester commencing eighteen weeks after the opening of the Seminary. The Seminary Year begins on the second or third Tuesday of September and continues for thirty-six weeks in every year, Commencement Day being the Thursday before the meeting of the General Assembly. The number of vacations and their dates are determined by the Board. It is expected that every student will be present at the opening of the session, when the rooms will be allotted. The more important days are indicated in the calendar (p. 3).

Examinations

Examinations, written or oral, are held in every department at the end of each semester. Students who do not pass satisfactory examinations may be re-examined at the beginning of the next term, but, failing then to give satisfaction, will be regarded as partial or will be required to enter the class corresponding to the one to which they belonged the previous year.

The Bachelor's Degree

Upon graduation students receive the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology. The degree will be granted to those who are graduates of an accredited college or who sustain satisfactory examinations in college subjects, and who have completed a course of three years study, pursued in this or partly in this and partly in some other regular theological Seminary.

The candidates for the degree must pass satisfactory examinations in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, present an acceptable thesis, and satisfy all requirements for attendance.

Men who have taken the full course at another Seminary, including the departments of Hebrew and Greek Exegesis, Dogmatic Theology, Church History, and Pastoral Theology, and have received a diploma, will be entitled to the Bachelor's degree from this Seminary on condition: (1) that they take the equivalent of a full year's work in a single year or two years; (2) that they be subject to the usual rules governing our classroom work, such as regular attendance and recitations; (3) that they pass the examinations with the classes of which they are members; (4) it is a further condition that such students attend exercises in at least three departments, one of which shall be either Greek or Hebrew Exegesis.

Courses of Study

The growth of the elective system in colleges has resulted in a wide variation in the equipment of the students entering the Seminary, and the broadening of the scope of practical Christian activity has necessitated a specialized training for ministerial candidates. In recognition of these conditions, the curriculum has been developed to prepare men for five different types of ministerial work: (1) the regular pastorate; (2) the foreign field; (3) home missionary service; (4) religious education; (5) teaching the Bible in colleges.

The elective system has been introduced with such restrictions as seemed necessary in view of the general aim of the Seminary.

The elective courses are confined largely to the senior year, except that students who have already completed certain courses of the Seminary curriculum will not be required to take them again, but may select from the list of electives such courses as will fill in the entire quota of hours.

Students who come to the Seminary with inadequate preparation will be required to take certain elementary courses, e. g., Greek, Hebrew, Philosophy. In some cases this may entail a four years' course in the Seminary, but students are urged to do all preliminary work in colleges.

The faculty reserves the right to require supplementary study in any subject in which a student is deficient; and those who are unable to write clear and correct English must make up this deficiency before the close of the second year.

Seventeen hours of recitation and lecture work are required of Juniors, for the Middlers the requirement is sixteen hours, for the Seniors fourteen hours, and for Graduate Students twelve hours per week throughout the year. Anyone desiring to take more than the required number of hours must make special application to the Faculty, and no student who falls below the grade "A" in his regular work will be allowed to take additional courses. A student absent from twenty-five per cent of the classroom exercises in any course will not receive credit for that course.

In the senior year the only required courses are those in Practical Theology, N. T. Theology, O. T. Prophecy, O. T. Introduction, and Christian Ethics. The election of studies must be on the group system, one subject being regarded as major and another as minor; for example, a student electing N. T. as a major must take four hours in this department and in addition must take one course in a closely related subject, such as O. T. Theology or Exegesis. He must also write a thesis of not less than 4,000 words on some topic in the department from which he has selected his major.

(1) The applicant must have a Bachelor's degree from a college of recognized standing.

(2) He must be a graduate of this or of some other theological seminary. In case he has graduated from another seminary, which does not require Greek and Hebrew for its diploma, the candidate must take in addition to the above requirements the following courses: Hebrew, 1 and 3; New Testament 13, or its equivalent; and 125, 126, 127.

(3) He must be in residence at this Seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to twelve hours per week of regular curriculum work.

(4) He shall be required to devote two-thirds of said time to one subject, which will be called a major, and the remainder to another subject termed a minor.

In the department of the major he shall be required to write a thesis on an approved theme. The subject of this thesis must be presented to the professor at the head of this department for approval, not later than November 15th of the academic year at the close of which the degree is to be conferred. By April 1st a typewritten copy of this thesis is to be in the hands of the professor for examination. At the close of the year he shall pass a rigid examination in both major and minor subjects.

Relations with University of Pittsburgh

The post-graduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to the students of the Seminary. The requirements for the A. M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh are 24 course credits and six thesis credits; for the Ph. D. degree, 72 course credits and six thesis credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the Graduate Faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the Seminary who desire to secure credits at the University.

Graduates from the three-year theological course of Western Theological Seminary, who desire to take the A.M. degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of Religion and Religious Education, may transfer as many as 14 semester credits from the Seminary as advanced standing toward this degree. The remaining 10 course credits and six thesis credits required for the A.M. degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. A part of the 10 course credits may be taken in other fields of the University than Religion and Religious Education.

Graduates of Western Theological Seminary will be allowed a maximum of 30 graduate credits as advanced standing toward the Ph.D. degree in Religion and Religious Education. An additional amount of six graduate credits may be granted to students taking courses at the Seminary beyond the regular three-year theological course, in which cases the courses must be agreed upon by the Graduate School of the University of Pittsburgh.

The University of Pittsburgh will accept graduate credits from Western Theological Seminary in the fields of Biblical literature, church history, theology, history and philosophy of religion, and religious education.

The amount of advanced graduate standing granted to Seminary students, who choose to do their major work at the University in fields other than Religion and Religious Education will be determined by heads of these departments. The advanced standing for both the A.M. and Ph.D. degrees will vary somewhat with departments and students.

A regular summer session or semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the Seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

The procedure outlined in the foregoing paragraphs became effective February, 1933.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Permission in writing must be secured by the student from the Registrar of the Seminary in order to take advantage of this privilege.

Fellowships and Prizes

1. Fellowships. For the year 1945-6 the Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying $800, will be available. This fellowship will be assigned upon graduation to the member of the Senior Class who has the highest standing in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, but to no one falling below an average of 85 per cent. The Faculty reserve the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of post-graduate study within three years of the award, under the direction of the Faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pa., by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Rev. Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class, and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. It is awarded to a member of the Senior Class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made.

3. A prize in Hebrew is offered to that member of the Junior Class who maintains the highest standing in this subject throughout the junior year. The prize consists of a copy of the Oxford Hebrew-English Lexicon, a copy of the latest English translation of Gesenius-Kautzsch's Hebrew Grammar or a copy of Davidson's Hebrew Syntax, and a copy of the Hebrew Bible edited by Kittel.

4. All students reaching the grade "A" in all departments during the junior year will be entitled to a prize of $50, which will be paid in four installments in the middle year, provided that the recipient continues to maintain the grade "A" in all departments during the middle year. Prizes of the same amount and under similar conditions will be available for middlers, but no student whose attendance is unsatisfactory will be eligible for these prizes.

5. In May 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pa., established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew

Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of $25 each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1st.

6. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Greek exegesis, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for the 1945-6 assignment is the Book of Philippians, and for 1946-47 it is I John.

7. In September 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the Senior Class who, having elected Hebrew, shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for the 1945-6 assignment is the Book of Ruth; and for 1946-7 it is the Book of Jonah.

8. In July 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of $1,000, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the Junior Class of the Seminary. The assignment upon which the examination will be given is Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

9. An entrance prize of $300 is offered by the Seminary to college graduates presenting themselves for admission to the Junior Class. The scholarships will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination subject to the following conditions:

(I) Candidates must, not later than September 1st, indicate their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must be accompanied by certificates of college standing and mention of subjects elected for examination.

(II) Candidates must be graduates of high standing in the classical course of some accepted college or university.

(III) The examinations will be conducted on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of the opening week of the first semester.

(IV) The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list: (1) CLASSICAL GREEK—Greek Grammar, translation of Greek prose, Greek composition; (2) LATIN—Latin Grammar, translation of Latin prose, Latin composition; (3) HEBREW—Hebrew Grammar, translation of Hebrew prose, Hebrew composition; (4) GERMAN—translation of German into English and English into German; (5) FRENCH—translation of French into English and English into French; (6) PHILOSOPHY—(a) History of Philosophy, (b) Psychology, (c) Ethics, (d) Metaphysics; (7) HISTORY—(a) Ancient Oriental History, (b) Græco-Roman History to A. D. 476, (c) Mediæval History to the Reformation, (d) Modern History.

(V) Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination, among which subjects Greek shall always be included. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject. No more than one subject in Philosophy and no more than one subject in History may be chosen by any one candidate.

(VI) The awards of the scholarships will be made to the two competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below ninety per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made, and the second on April 1st. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work or prolonged absence will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment. The winner of this prize is not eligible for scholarship during the Junior year.

The intention to compete for the prize scholarships should be made known, in writing, to the President.

10. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of $25.00 to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be given to the student in the Senior Class who by vote of the student body has shown the greatest amount of Christian leadership during his Seminary life.

Donations and Bequests

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania". The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

I hereby give and bequeath to the Trustees of the Western Theological Seminary, of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:—

Note:—If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added:—The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate.

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world an additional endowment of $500,000 is imperatively necessary.

The Memorial idea may be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.
